OFFICE OF THE DIRECTORFUNCTIONAL STATEMENT

The Director of Central Intelligence directs all activities of the Central Intelligence Agency. For the purpose of coordinating the intelligence activities of the several government departments and agencies in the interest of national security, it is the Director's responsibility, under the direction of the National Security Council, to advise the Council in matters concerning such intelligence activities of the government departments and agencies as related to national security; make recommendations for coordination of such intelligence activities of the departments and agencies of the government as relate to the national security; correlate and evaluate intelligence and provide for its appropriate dissemination within the government using, where appropriate, existing agencies and facilities; perform, for the benefit of the existing intelligence agencies, such additional services of common concern as the National Security Council determines can be more efficiently accomplished centrally; to protect intelligence sources and methods from unauthorized disclosure; direct such analysis as may be necessary to determine which functions in the fields of national intelligence are not being presently or adequately performed; act for the National Security Council in coordinating all Federal foreign intelligence activities related to the national security to ensure that the over-all policies and objectives established are properly implemented and executed; and to perform other functions and duties related to intelligence affecting the national security as the National Security Council or the President may from time to time direct. In addition, the Director of Central Intelligence serves as intelligence advisor to the National Security Council, Chairman of the Intelligence Advisory Committee, Chairman of the United States Communications Intelligence Board, and member of the Operations Coordinating Board.

The Deputy Director of Central Intelligence assists the Director in the performance of his duties and acts as the Director in the absence of the latter. He also serves as Chairman of the Watch Committee, a permanent subcommittee of the Intelligence Advisory Committee.

Inspector General

The Inspector General is charged with conducting investigations throughout the Agency on behalf of the Director and with inspecting throughout the Agency the performance of missions and exercise of functions of all CIA offices and personnel.

FUNCTIONAL STATEMENT (Cont'd):

Planning and Coordination Staff

The Special Assistant for Planning and Coordination assists the Director of Central Intelligence in planning and coordinating intelligence activities and Agency operational activities relating to national security.

The Planning and Coordination Staff develops and recommends policies and plans for the coordination of intelligence activities and Agency operational activities relating to national security; furnishes guidance regarding the long-range plans of the Agency; advises and assists in achieving effective collaboration in the Federal Intelligence Community; reviews and evaluates the effectiveness of coordination within the Federal Intelligence Community; coordinates and reviews Agency external research projects; and performs other related duties as the Director of Central Intelligence may require.

Executive Assistant to the Director

The Executive Assistant to the Director is charged with directing the activities of the Executive Secretariat and performing such other duties as may be assigned by the Director and the Deputy Director.

Executive Registry

The Executive Registry renders service to the Director and his assistants in the receipt, control, distribution and disposition of intelligence material and administrative documents flowing through the executive offices.

Cable Secretariat

The Cable Secretariat disseminates CIA cables within Agency Headquarters and provides continuous Clandestine Services Duty Officer coverage.

FUNCTIONAL STATEMENT

The Deputy Director (Intelligence) is charged with responsibility for assisting the Director of Central Intelligence in the coordination of the intelligence activities of the Government, as prescribed by statute and by National Security Council directives, related to the overt collection of information and the production of substantive intelligence; and for directing and coordinating the activities of the Office of Collection and Dissemination, Current Intelligence, National Estimates, Operations, Scientific Intelligence, Research and Reports, and Basic Intelligence.

The Office of the DD/I is divided into 5 major functional groups:

The Assistant to the DD/I (NSC and National Estimates) is responsible for serving as an NSC Planning Board Assistant; representing CIA on special NSC projects; for the over-all coordination of Agency views on questions before the NSC Planning Board; and for maintaining continuous liaison with the Office of National Estimates to assure that national estimates are prepared so as to meet NSC requirements in terms of timing and scope.

The Assistant to the DD/I (Intelligence) is responsible for the coordination and review of CIA intelligence production; for the selection of intelligence material to be referred to senior Agency officials; and for personal briefing of the DCI, DDCI, DDI and other senior Agency officials on critical current world-wide events.

The Assistant to the DD/I (Administration) is responsible for the over-all coordination of administrative support requirements for the seven DD/I offices with the DD/S and his component offices; and for the development and implementation of administrative policy and procedures governing the offices under the DD/I.

The Field Coordination Staff has primary responsibility within the DD/I area for the substantive support, maintenance and guidance of the DD/I overseas activities; for the substantive briefing and guidance as to procedures and activities while overseas of all DD/I personnel on temporary

This Office, under the Assistant Director for Operations, is responsible for the collection of foreign intelligence information from overt non-governmental sources through the facilities of three Divisions, operated as services on common concern for CIA and the IAC agencies, and the Sovmat Staff. As a centralized service, it provides for the exploitation of overt sources and the collection of intelligence information directly from:

Acquisition and analysis of Soviet and Satellite materials (Sovmat Staff).

Non-government organizations and individuals, including selected defectors and aliens, within

Foreign language publications and documents (Foreign Documents Division).

STATSPEC

As a corollary of its collection functions, the Office also provides various types of operational support to other CIA Offices, and is responsible for the rehabilitation and resettlement within the U.S. of certain defectors and foreign nationals. The functions and activities of the various Divisions and Sovmat Staff are given in detail in the following sections.

OFFICE OF OPERATIONS

Office of the Assistant Director

FUNCTIONAL STATEMENT

The Assistant Director provides the executive and administrative direction of the Office of Operations in the performance of its function of the collection of foreign intelligence information from overt non-governmental sources. He is responsible for the development and implementation of policies and programs for exploiting overt sources, and for the control and direction of the three divisions and two staffs which comprise the Office of Operations. He is also charged with the provision of specialized operational support to other Agency components and with certain non-collection activities which are directly related to his overall mission. The immediate office of the Assistant Director includes the Planning and Coordinating Staff. Budget for the Sovmat Staff is presented separately.

Planning and Coordinating Staff

This staff assists in the development of Office policy and operational procedures, in the formulation of plans, and in the coordination of the activities of the Office with other CIA offices and outside agencies. It studies the operations and output of intelligence information of the Divisions and recommends to the Assistant Director for Operations such changes in organization or method as may improve Office production.

Members of the staff act as representatives of the Assistant Director on inter-office committees and projects which affect more than one of the Divisions, such as committees on intelligence procedures and substantive operational or collection problems. They also represent him in discussion of administrative policies, procedures, and regulations.

The staff provides a central point for the coordination and integration of divisional interest in the above fields; and is responsible for recommending office-level action to be taken by the Assistant Director. It drafts planning, policy, and operational papers for the Assistant Director and undertakes such other specialized functions as he may direct.

FUNCTIONAL STATEMENT

Foreign Documents Division

Under the direction of the Assistant Director for Operations the Foreign Documents Division (a) exploits foreign language newspapers, periodicals, books, monographs, captured documents, and other documents for intelligence information in answer to continuing programs established on the basis of recommendations of the NSCID 16 Advisory Committee and specific requirements from offices of CIA and the IAC agencies; (b) provides a translation service, directs the use of contract funds for translation of unclassified material requested by offices of CIA, and coordinates the translation activities of the intelligence agencies to avoid duplication of effort; (c) abstracts covert foreign language documents for the immediate use of appropriate CIA offices; (d) analyzes propaganda appearing in Soviet and Satellite publications for estimating offices of CIA; (e) undertakes documentary research or direction of external research from foreign language sources as requested by offices of CIA; (f) and provides within the capabilities of the Division, translation service in the rarer languages on specific request of the IAC agencies.

On the basis of collection directives and information requirements, the documents are screened and scanned and information of value is extracted, summarized, abstracted, collated, or compiled so as to answer most adequately these requirements. Current foreign language press information is published on a high-priority timely basis. The information thus collected is then issued by the Division in the form of reports, summaries, or translations for dissemination by OCD. Industrial, biographic, graphic and other specialized intelligence material is translated or abstracted and forwarded directly to the appropriate registry or office. The Division works closely with the offices of CIA and the other intelligence agencies in the interest of avoiding waste and duplication of effort in the exploitation and translation of documents by maintaining a central cross-indexed card file of all foreign language exploitation or translation projects in process or completed by them. In addition, the Division publishes monthly a Consolidated Translation Survey to keep the IAC agencies abreast of what is being translated by US intelligence agencies, other Government agencies, private enterprise, universities, and certain foreign governments.

Office of the Chief

This Office directs: (a) the exploitation of foreign language documents in accordance with the information requirements of the offices of CIA and the IAC agencies; (b) the development of new sources, methods, and techniques for such exploitation in order to assure the best possible

Administrative Staff

The Administrative Staff provides administrative control of Division personnel; plans and advises upon administrative policies and procedures; provides supply, property, budget, space, communications, and message center services; interviews applicants and processes personnel actions; objectively analyzes the capabilities and qualifications of branch personnel in the light of position requirements in order to effect more efficient utilization of personnel; supervises security, safety, fire, and other emergency matters in compliance with CIA regulations; coordinates training of FDD personnel with the Office of Training; controls internal routing of official correspondence; and in addition, is responsible for the internal receipt, routing, and control, of intelligence reports received from OCD.

Reports Branch

The Report Branch (a) assigns all requirements received by the Division and coordinating divisional projects as directed by the Division Chief; (b) screens all foreign language material received by the Division and controls document procurement requests, including estimating and adjusting the budgetary allocations for this purpose; (c) edits and prepares for reproduction all material produced by the Division for publication; (d) maintains complete and continuous records of the Division's exploitation and reporting operations, and prepares monthly statistical reports of the Division's operations and other special reports as required;

(e) processes and accounts for all material assigned for translation outside the Division; (f) directs and records the transmittals to the appropriate CIA offices of all reports and translations prepared in the Division; (g) controls and reports inter-agency liaison by Division personnel, as required by CIA regulations; (h) maintains in cooperation with other US intelligence agencies, a Document Exploitation File for prevention of duplication in the exploitation or translation of foreign-language documents; (i) publishes a monthly report on foreign-language exploitation and/or translation for use of the IAC agencies; (j) requisitions all reproduction work, copying and bookbinding, required by the Division; (k) maintains complete files of FDD's reports for reference purposes; and (l) coordinates and controls the Division's Records Management program in compliance with Agency policy and in coordination with Management Staff.

USSR, Scientific & Technical, Far East, Eastern Europe, and Western World Branches

The functions of these operational branches are essentially the same except for subjects or area responsibility given separately below. The branches (a) exploit foreign-language documents for intelligence information concerning their area or subject in answer to continuing programs developed on the basis of recommendations of the NSCID-16 Advisory Committee, subject to the approval of the Assistant Director for Operations, and in answer to specific requirements of offices of CIA and IAC agencies; (b) provide translation and interpretation service upon requests from offices of CIA and when possible for other intelligence agencies; (c) provide abstracting service on covert foreign-language documents procured by the Agency; (d) support propaganda analyses; and (e) undertakes research or directs external research from foreign language sources as requested by responsible CIA offices.

The branches review all available foreign-language documents to determine applicability to existing intelligence requirements pertinent to their area or subjects, initiate procurement requests for necessary documents, analyze, select, extract, summarize, translate, compile, or collate intelligence information in the exploitation of such documents, prepare intelligence information reports and analyses, maintain liaison with their counterparts in components of the offices of CIA and the IAC agencies.

OFFICE OF CURRENT INTELLIGENCE

FUNCTIONAL STATEMENT

The Office of Current Intelligence is charged with the responsibility for producing (all-source) current intelligence and for the procurement, exploitation and secure handling of special information. Its primary function is to render current intelligence support to the Director of Central Intelligence, his Senior Representatives abroad, the National Security Council, and the President. The Office is also responsible for maintaining and supporting the USCIB Secretariat, and contributing to the support of the National Indications Center through the IAC Watch Committee.

In matters relating to special intelligence, OCI has responsibility for negotiating procurement, insuring security, arranging maximum exploitation and use, and carrying out interdepartmental and international liaison. Five special intelligence centers or restricted areas in CIA are controlled by this Office, in each of which are stationed working elements of other CIA Offices whose needs extend to the exploitation of all-source information available in OCI. The Assistant Director, as a member of USCIB, represents CIA and gives staff assistance to the Director of Central Intelligence, who is Chairman of USCIB, the Board's primary function being formulation of operational and security policies for implementation by member agencies.

Special Policy and Security Staff

The Special Policy and Security Staff provides for CIA implementation of special intelligence policy formulated by USCIB, and represents and advises the Assistant Director in matters of liaison and interdepartmental coordination bearing on special information. It assists in planning with regard to development, exploitation, sanitization, disguise and operational use of such special intelligence, and provides representation on committees concerned therewith. Its Security Branch controls physical, personnel, and operational security measures required for the protection of intelligence of a high order of sensitivity, and advises and assists the line of supervision in exercising its responsibility for enforcement of the CIA security program in Special Centers, in staff capacity.

Special Support Staff

Both within the special intelligence field and as applied to collateral materials, the Special Support Staff provides operational assistance in the establishment, coordination, and levying of information requirements. It initiates collection actions and processes requests for intelligence materials available through others. It distributes, disseminates and controls information and intelligence, and operates a special courier system for sensitive materials. Statistical assessment of intelligence production is accomplished within this Staff in order to afford guidance to all participating activities. The CIA Watch Office, for providing off-duty-hour administrative facilities and for alerting upon receipt of significant or critical information, is operated by this Staff.

Administrative Staff

The Administrative Staff acts for the Assistant Director in matters of personnel, career service, management, budget and finance, training, emergency planning, and logistics.

Intelligence Staff

The Intelligence Staff exercises policy direction over the processing, production, and issuance of current intelligence on an all-source basis. It makes final substantive determination and authorizes the release of current intelligence, including that which contains evaluated comment. It exercises substantive and policy direction over the current intelligence support rendered by OCI to other CIA Offices having a need, and, in the field, staff guidance to the strategic intelligence components that provide current intelligence support to Senior Representatives at

Indications Staff

Under the Intelligence Staff, the Indications Staff analyzes and interprets indications of foreign capabilities and intentions affecting the security of the United States. It provides representation for CIA on the IAC Watch Committee, and liaison and coordination with the National Indications Center. Through continuing study of critical situations, it provides the Chief, Intelligence Staff with hypotheses to be used in rationalizations and evaluation of intentions. It guides the regional divisions in the development of all-source indicators relating to their particular geographic areas. OCI also provides professional and clerical personnel who give full-time support to the activities of the National Indications Center of the IAC.

Situation Room Division

The Division maintains, operates, and controls the Situation Room. In collaboration with specialists and in coordination with the Publications Board, it prepares graphic portrayals, special maps, charts, and graphs to illustrate publications, or in support of current intelligence oral presentations. It conducts, contributes to, and coordinates briefings and substantive intelligence presentations to the President, White House Staff, Director of Central Intelligence, the Deputy Assistant Directors, and others.

Publications Board

The Publications Board selects, edits, and issues evaluated current intelligence. It takes immediate action to evaluate and issue critical items after coordination with the Intelligence Staff. It coordinates and administers established production controls over the activities of divisions producing current intelligence. It is responsible for the coordination of current intelligence assistance to other components of OCI and other Offices of CIA, and for direct line supervision of area divisions of OCI.

(NB: Within their respective geographic areas, the functions set forth below apply equally to Soviet Division, Far East Division, Near East-Africa Division, and Western Division.)

Each area division is responsible for both spot and periodic production of all-source current intelligence from its area, supported by appropriate evaluated comment. It selects, prepares, and submits to the Publications Board items which are held to be suitable for issue as current intelligence, or which constitute indications intelligence. It collaborates with Indications Staff, Publications Board, Situation Room Division, and those other activities or Offices of CIA having competence or interest. It provides qualified senior representation to the Publications Board or to the Situation Room for briefings. It initiates information or intelligence requirements for service upon collection agencies through the Special Support Staff, and collaborates with Indications Staff to identify indications of current intentions of foreign powers.

USCIB Secretariat

OCI provides administrative and clerical personnel, office space, and logistic support for the USCIB Secretariat, in its function of providing continuity of executive, technical, and administrative service to the Board, and performs such other functions as the Board may direct.

OFFICE OF NATIONAL ESTIMATES

FUNCTIONAL STATEMENT

The mission of the Office of National Estimates is derived from the mandate of the National Security Act of 1947 "to correlate and evaluate intelligence relating to the national security . . . using where appropriate existing agencies and facilities." (Title I, Section 102(d) (3)).

The Office of National Estimates (ONE) has since late 1950 been the response of the CIA to the responsibilities imposed upon it by law and basic directives in the field of intelligence estimates. The organization and operation of ONE reflect the recommendations made by the Hoover Commission and the Dulles Committee, the two major groups which have studied the problem of producing national intelligence estimates.

ONE has but one mission: to produce national intelligence estimates (NIE's) in close collaboration with the IAC agencies. The NIE is viewed as the end-product of the entire intelligence process, a product designed to serve as essential intelligence backing for US policy and planning on the highest level of government. ONE sets the estimates process in motion, guides the estimates through this process, and coordinates and reviews them until their final approval by the Intelligence Advisory Committee.

Office of the Assistant Director

The Assistant Director for National Estimates provides the over-all direction of the office, and, as chairman of the Board of National Estimates, directs the production of national intelligence estimates. Together with the Deputy Assistant Director, also a member of the Board, he assigns production responsibilities and priorities among the components of CIA, and among the intelligence agencies of the Federal Government. In addition to directing, as a Board member, the production of individual estimates, he provides general supervision for all estimates and assumes responsibility for their presentation for final action by the Intelligence Advisory Committee. He also direct the preparation and review of memoranda for the Director on a wide range of intelligence problems and personally briefs the Director on these matters as well as on pending estimates.

Office of the Assistant Director (Cont'd)

The Deputy Assistant Director, also intimately involved in the estimative process, assumes responsibility for the over-all management of the coordination process which involves continuing contact with and direction for the contributing agencies and offices. He provides for the internal management of ONE.

The Board of National Estimates

The Board of National Estimates, under the chairmanship of the Assistant Director for National Estimates, is the core of ONE. This Board consists of up to ten senior intelligence officers with a long and wide variety of experience in intelligence and related fields. The membership is personally selected by the Director.

Individuals are selected from among outstanding scholars of national repute, experts in the fields of strategy, political science, economics and other social sciences and persons with the broadest experience in the field of intelligence at the highest level. A balance is maintained between career intelligence officers and others.

The Board is responsible for the estimates produced. It takes the leadership in deciding which estimates to produce in the case of self-initiated estimates, and what the scope should be --- sometimes even in the case of estimates requested by the NSC or other high authority. The Board reviews terms of reference and draft estimates before they go to the IAC agencies. A member of the Board is chairman of the meeting of IAC representatives who meet with the Board during the interagency coordination process. The Board decides when a draft is ready for IAC consideration. Both the Chairman of the Board and the Board member in charge of the particular estimate attend the IAC meeting when the estimate is under discussion and defend the draft on behalf of the interagency team which participated in its production.

The Board of National Estimates is also responsible for providing the IAC with a program of National Intelligence Estimates, prepared with the guidance of the NSC Planning Board, and in consultation with the several IAC committees and in coordination with the IAC agencies. Requests for estimates other than those programmed are transmitted to the IAC via the Board of National Estimates.

The Board has also been assigned by the IAC the direction of a review of National Intelligence Objectives

The Board of National Estimates, in order to improve the validity of NIE's, conducts reviews of certain estimates to identify intelligence deficiencies that were evident in their preparation. Periodically, a summary of intelligence deficiencies is prepared, in consultation with the IAC agencies, for noting by the IAC and issuance by the DCI for the guidance of collection and research activities.

The Estimates Staff

The Estimates Staff consists of a group of intelligence officers selected for their competence to give substantive staff support to the Board of National Estimates. Broadly speaking, this support is of three kinds: (a) the preparation of draft estimates from all sources including contributions submitted by the intelligence organizations of The Department of State, The Joint Staff, The Army, The Navy, The Air Force, The Atomic Energy Commission, The Federal Bureau of Investigation, and offices within CIA; (b) providing knowledge and judgment on trends and developments in areas the world over; and (c) providing liaison with organizations with which ONE works (IAC Watch Committee, NSC Planning Board, The Joint Staff,

This professional Staff numbers some 25 intelligence officers. These are organized for administrative and operational convenience into four main areas (USSR/EE, Western Europe/Latin America, Near East, and Far East). A Chief of the Estimates Staff generally coordinates staff assignments and activity and, in particular, determines when a draft estimate is ready for Board consideration.

Increasing demands have been made on the Staff for assistance in matters not directly related to the preparation of NIE's; viz., commenting on draft NSC papers, writing speeches for others, working on ad hoc policy committees, contributing to agency indoctrination and training classes, commenting on OCB papers, and assisting in the preparation of the Director for briefings to be given to the NSC.

Efforts are consistently made by ONE to permit Staff members to broaden their experiences. They are sent to the National War College and other senior service schools. They are rotated to other offices

Direct staff contact with the military services is facilitated by having representative officers from the services on detail in Staff assignments.

Support Staff

The Support Staff includes those components which provide the administrative support for the Board of National Estimates and the Estimates Staff. This group includes research assistants, information control personnel, typists, stenographers, proof-readers and clerks.

Panel of Consultants

Consultants are used to review selected estimates. This provides an extra-governmental check, particularly on key questions where little evidence is available and where an estimate is necessarily based largely on judgment.

The ONE panel of consultants consists of eminent individuals of national reputation in their respective fields.

Selected members of the Board and Staff meet bi-monthly at Princeton University with a group of consultants drawn from the panel for two days of discussion on vital international issues. A member of the Board of National Estimates acts as chairman of the group.

Office of the Assistant Director: The Assistant Director is charged with establishing and maintaining the Agency scientific and technical intelligence research and production program, with producing scientific and technical intelligence in accordance with the responsibilities of the Agency, and with providing advice and making recommendations on scientific and technical intelligence matters to the Director of Central Intelligence and other officers and Offices of the Agency. (The responsibility of the Assistant Director normally extends to intelligence on the development, characteristics and performance capabilities of foreign devices, products, equipments and systems, but not to intelligence on volumes, economic capabilities and technological methods of production. In addition, however, he is responsible for all aspects of atomic energy intelligence and for the coordination of intelligence production, requirements and related activities pertaining to guided missiles.) The immediate office of the Assistant Director provides over-all direction and supervision of the activities of the Office of Scientific Intelligence.

The Executive Office: The Executive Office communicates instructions and decisions of the AD/SI as required and coordinates the activities of O/SI Divisions and Staffs as directed by the Assistant Director. In addition, it plans and directs all Office-level administration and management activities, including training, budget, personnel matters, security, information control and liaison clearances.

Activity IIForeign Scientific Intelligence Research and Production

Intelligence Production Staff: The Intelligence Production Staff provides staff advice and assistance to the Assistant Director in planning the Office program for research and production. It integrates and consolidates the Office intelligence production, which includes the preparation of scientific intelligence estimates and research aids, contributions to the publications of ONI and OCI, contributions to the National Intelligence Survey and the presentation of substantive briefings. As a further function, the Intelligence Production Staff recommends and recommends and records the dissemination of finished intelligence produced by the Office.

Biology, Medicine, Chemistry, Physics and Electronics, Applied Science, Nuclear Energy and Guided Missiles Divisions: These substantive divisions are responsible for conducting the scientific and technical intelligence research essential to the accomplishment of the Office mission. Each Division according to its named speciality is specifically responsible for conducting research and producing intelligence in the basic sciences and with correlating and evaluating all-source scientific and technical intelligence to meet the needs of the Director and other officers of the Agency. Where necessary, each Division will also conduct research and produce scientific and technical intelligence to supplement that produced by other agencies.

Scientific Resources Division: The Scientific Resources Division has the same general and specific responsibilities as the substantive divisions except that its field is the over-all national organization and control of science by foreign nations. It is thus concerned with factors which influence progress in all sciences, such as, national support of science, incentives for scientists, effect of political pressure, organization and control of scientific research and education, and the quantity and quality of scientific manpower.

Activity III Operational and Substantive Support of Intelligence Research

Scientific Analysis Division: The Scientific Analysis Division conducts research in a specialized field in support of Activity II.

Support Staff: The Support Staff provides staff advice and assistance to the Assistant Director in formulating policies and techniques for support and guidance to collection, planning of external research projects, support of Office personnel in the field, and liaison with other offices of the Agency and other Departments of the Government.

Activity IV Overseas Activities

Overseas activities attached to FI for administrative purposes: The Office of Scientific Intelligence is responsible for providing technical supervision and personnel.

OFFICE OF RESEARCH AND REPORTSFUNCTIONAL STATEMENT

The assigned mission of the Office of Research and Reports is threefold: production of economic intelligence on the Sino-Soviet Bloc; production of geographic intelligence on all areas outside of the U.S.; coordination of intelligence among Federal departments and agencies in these specific economic and geographic fields and related services. The intelligence production parts of this mission involve not only basic programmed research and publication of results; but also research in direct support of National Intelligence Estimates; other CIA offices, particularly for operational planning and other Government units including the economic defense structure. The mission is accomplished under direction and policy guidance from the Assistant Director, with responsibility assigned to ten divisions and the EIC Secretariat working under three Area headquarters, and with the support of three staffs reporting directly to the Assistant Director.

Assistant Director

The Assistant Director directs the overall programming and conduct of economic and geographic research and intelligence production and guides the interagency coordination activities that have been entrusted to this Office. The Assistant Director is Chairman of the interagency Economic Intelligence Committee, which is charged with reviewing foreign economic intelligence activities of the U.S. Government and with preparing coordinated economic intelligence studies of interagency interest requested by the Intelligence Advisory Committee, the Joint Staff of the JCS, and others. He also serves as CIA representative on the Economic Defense Advisory Committee. Through his immediate office and with the aid of an Executive and a Special Assistant, the Assistant Director controls certain activities affecting the entire Office, such as emergency planning, consultant services, the Office's external research program, ORR activities outside the U.S., and contacts with liaison representatives of other governments.

Administrative Staff

Provides advice to the Assistant Director and support to all components of the Office on administrative matters. This staff processes all position allocations and classifications, personnel actions, personnel evaluations, training requests, personnel and physical-security matters, travel arrangements, purchase requisitions, and arranges for management surveys. It maintains the ORR records management program, develops budgetary statements and reports for ORR, administers employee services, and provides Office liaison with DD/S offices.

FUNCTIONAL STATEMENT (Cont'd)

Projects Control Staff

Assigned the functions of advising on the status of intelligence production within the Office, of maintaining production records, and of insuring that dissemination of finished intelligence produced by this Office and by the EIC conforms with existing regulations and policies. This staff processes incoming requests for intelligence support, maintains a continuing record on the status of all ORR and EIC projects and issues periodic reports thereon, and advises the Assistant Director and the Area chiefs on overall utilization of capabilities. This staff is responsible for keeping dissemination lists under review and for reviewing individual publications in the light of pertinent security regulations prior to dissemination. The Projects Control Staff also maintains reading files of all ORR publications and other CIA finished intelligence.

Intelligence Information Staff

Responsible for providing needed information to all components of ORR. It furnishes the Office channels for serving on collection Offices and agencies the coordinated collection requirements of the Office; for securing evaluations requested by collectors, and for arranging operational liaison, briefings, and debriefings. Through a reading panel and a message center, this staff assures proper routing of incoming documentary information to components of ORR. The Intelligence Information Staff has also been assigned certain functions of common concern to the intelligence community; by providing the secretariat of the Requirements Subcommittee of the Economic Intelligence Committee, it coordinates, as appropriate, requirements of other agencies; and it coordinates the [redacted] and the interdepartmental backstopping program for economic reporting from the Soviet Bloc.

Office of the Chief, Geographic Research

Responsible for the development, programming, and production of geographic research, mapping intelligence, special cartographic production, photo intelligence and interpretation, and for coordinating procurement of geographic and map intelligence and map reference materials, including maintenance of a map reference service. These programs and services are carried out by the four component divisions of the Area. In addition, the Area fosters coordination of the geographic and photo intelligence effort within the Government and assists in development of coordinated requirements reflecting the priorities of CIA and other intelligence agencies in those fields.

Map Library Division

Maintains and develops on a continuing basis a comprehensive library providing a current world-wide coverage of foreign special-subject maps, together with strategic map series, target charts and photo mosaics, and other map reference materials for intelligence use by CIA and other intelligence agencies. The Division Chief, as the Department of State Special Assistant for Maps, provides substantive direction and leadership for the Department of State Geographic Attache program and chairs the Inter-Departmental Map Procurement Coordinating Committee.

Geography Division

Responsible for providing geographic intelligence in support of covert operational planning, scientific and economic intelligence production, the Strategic Air Command, and the National Intelligence Survey program. Its research includes area and urban analyses, border and route studies, and also [REDACTED] studies for both CIA and military use. This division provides intelligence on Soviet activities in geodesy and photogrammetry as they bear on Soviet Bloc war capabilities. The division also contributes to and coordinates the NIS Chapters on Map and Chart Appraisal. 25X1C

Cartography Division

Provides finished intelligence in cartographic form and cartographic support to other finished intelligence production, high-level briefings, and covert operations. Through its activities in the coordination of the NIS base mapping program and other inter-Office and inter-Agency support, this division establishes standards of cartographic presentation and promotes presentation of intelligence in cartographic form.

Provides photographic-intelligence support for intelligence activities in the economic, geographic, scientific, and covert-operations fields within the Agency and develops, through training of analysts in other components, a general working capability within the Agency in the utilization of photographic information. This division also develops improved photo-intelligence

Chief, Economic Research

The Chief, Economic Research, is responsible for that part of the ORR mission concerned with production of all-source economic intelligence on the Sino-Soviet Bloc. The Area's mission is to provide the economic intelligence required for national intelligence purposes, for support of other IAC agencies and inter-agency groups, and for other CIA Offices in the carrying out of their assigned responsibilities. The Area provides secretariats and members for EIC subcommittees in its field of responsibility. The Area includes the Chief's office and immediate supporting staffs, and four operating Divisions -- one concerned with overall economic appraisals and three with functional responsibilities for individual sectors of the Bloc economy.

Analysis Division

Produces aggregative analyses and all-source economic intelligence in collaboration with other divisions. This division also develops research techniques and methods, and recommends improvements in statistical standards and in research practices in the interest of increasing reliability and consistency of the ORR intelligence product including military economics.

Industrial Division

Studies the capital, consumer goods and military end product industries of Sino-Soviet Bloc. This division produces all-source economic intelligence on aircraft, ammunition and weapons, electrical equipment, shipbuilding, medium and heavy machinery and light manufacturing industries, as well as on internal trade.

OFFICE OF THE GENERAL COUNSEL

FUNCTIONAL STATEMENT

The Office of the General Counsel serves as legal adviser to the Director and all organizational units of the Central Intelligence Agency and represents the Agency in all legal proceedings. This Office reviews contracts, agreements, leases, and other legal documents to which the Central Intelligence Agency is a party; advises and assists in ascertaining and determining proper regulations and procedures with respect to the use of unvouchered funds; examines and approves in advance of issue all intra-departmental orders, regulations, and related directives which involve legal questions; and handles the legal aspects of transactions involving matters of real property with which the Central Intelligence Agency is concerned. The Office is also responsible for advising on legal aspects of the status of aliens in the United States who are the responsibility of the Central Intelligence Agency.

In the field of covert activities the General Counsel is called upon for legal advice with respect to the unique problems of individuals in a covert status. That advice is concerned with the relationships of such individuals to this Agency and to other organizations. The General Counsel furnishes legal advice with respect to the relationships of the organizations mentioned above to the Central Intelligence Agency. The legal problems arising therefrom extend to all fields, including private, international law, and foreign law.

FUNCTIONAL STATEMENT

The Office of the Comptroller is responsible for the development and administration of the overall budgetary and financial program of the Agency. This involves the developing and justifying to the Bureau of the Budget and the Congress annual budget estimates; formulating and administering a program of budgetary execution to assure a balanced relationship between funds and activity requirements to accomplish an orderly and effective program of expenditure; procuring through covert and semi-covert channels and procedures the annual appropriations made on behalf of CIA; establishing accounting and financial policies and procedures and otherwise providing staff advice to the Agency on all related matters to insure the establishment and maintenance of appropriate controls and regulations with respect to accounting and audit matters; and supervising the use of both vouchered and unvouchered funds for Agency world-wide activities and other financial matters involving Agency policy and procedure with other appropriate officials concerned with internal management problems.

The Office of the Comptroller maintains close liaison with all offices within the Agency in connection with procedures involving the internal administration of budgetary and fiscal affairs. External budgetary and fiscal activities require coordination and liaison with Committees of Congress, the Bureau of the Budget, Treasury Department, General Accounting Office, Departments of State, Army, Navy, Air Force, and other governmental agencies. Continued liaison is exercised with budgetary and fiscal officials in other agencies to insure that financial processing meets security requirements. For security reasons special procedures are effected in order to permit deviations from the normal governmental routine channels. The Office of the Comptroller maintains close coordination with the Office of the General Counsel on legal aspects of budget and fiscal matters.

OFFICE OF TRAINING

FUNCTIONAL STATEMENT

General

The Director of Training is responsible for the development, direction, and conduct of Agency training programs and with providing for Agency participation in training programs at appropriate external facilities, public and private in the United States and Overseas, under applicable provisions of Public Law 110 (81st Congress, 1st Session). The Director of Training also participates in the formulation of the policies and plans of the CIA Career Service Program.

The Office of Training is a service organization for all of the Offices of the Agency. Its basic purpose is to improve the capability of personnel to serve the Agency. New professional personnel recruited by the Agency must be regarded as laymen in the field of intelligence no matter how qualified they may be in their respective professional fields. They must be taught new knowledge, new substantive concepts, and new skills and techniques. Through training, their particular professional competence must be related to the field of intelligence and subordinated to it so that they will use their professional competence as intelligence officers. Not only must an extensive and diverse training effort by continued but research and planning must go hand in hand with that effort, both in established and contemplated areas of training. To this substantive and administrative task must be added the requirement for close coordination and liaison with each and every office of the Agency and with the Departments of State and Defense and appropriate non-governmental institutions.

25X1A The Office of Training consists of the Office of the Director of Training, three Staffs, four Schools, and a major [redacted] training installation. Brief descriptions of the activities of each of these organizational components follow.

Director of Training

Provides executive direction for the activities of the Office of Training and policy and program coordination, through the Deputy Director (Support) with the Deputy Director of Central Intelligence, Deputy Director (Intelligence), and Deputy Director (Plans). Is responsible for all matters relating to training including the coordination, technical supervision, review and support of all Agency training activities, foreign and domestic. Also provides high level liaison and coordination with various Departments and Agencies of government, educational institutions and private corporations of Agency training matters.
