*On 11 October 1977, the Intelligence Directorate and the National Intelligence Officers were combined as the National Foreign Assessment Center (NFAC). Robert R. This latter title was recently changed to Deputy Director for National Foreign Assessment.

Office of National Estimates (ONE)

Established: 13 November 1950

William L. Langer	13 Nov. 1950 - 2 Jan. 1952
Sherman Kent	3 Jan. 1952 - 31 Dec. 1967
Abbot E. Smith	1 Jan. 1968 - 16 Apr. 1971
John W. Huizenga	17 Apr. 1971 - 29 June 1973
Ramsey Forbush, Acting	30 June 1973 - 30 Sept. 1973

The Office (and Board) of National Estimates was one of the offices put under the DDI when it was established in January 1952. ONE was transferred from the DDI to the DCI area on 20 January 1966. The organizational structure of ONE remained the same until 1 October 1973. On that date, the Board and Office of National Estimates was replaced by the National Intelligence Officers (NIOs), each to be the Director's personal representative and reporting directly to him on the NIO's area of responsibility. A Deputy to the Director of Central Intelligence for National Intelligence Officers (D/DCI/NIO) was assigned administrative and coordinating authority over the NIOs.

D/DCI/NIO

Established: 1 October 1973

George A. Carver, Jr. ¹	1 Oct. 1973 - 6 June 1976
Richard Lehman	7 June 1976 - 3 Apr. 1977
Robert R. Bowie	4 Apr. 1977 - 10 Oct. 1977

This concept changed slightly in April 1977 on the appointment of Robert R. Bowie. He was named Deputy to the DCI for National Intelligence and all NIOs reported directly to him instead of to the DCI.
