Wiener Neustadt Nord Airfield

1. One hundred and sixty single-engine, gull-wing monoplanes believed to be MIG-3's were observed standing on the field. Of these, about 120 had three-bladed propellers. Only 8 or 10 planes were observed to be in working order; most of the remaining planes were covered with tarpaulins. These aircraft were being repaired on the field. Four single-engine bi-planes of the U-2 type and 6 other unidentified craft, all believed to be mail planes, were also observed.
2. Between 11:00 and 17:00 hours, 36 planes landed, 40 took off, and 2 to 5 circled in the air above the field. Traffic between Wiener Neustadt and the field was light. By day, Russian sentries permit no civilians to approach closer than 150 meters of the field.

Wien/Aspern Airfield

3. One hundred and eighteen aircraft were observed on the field, including 94 twin-engine planes with double tail assembly, probably PE-3's; eight were U-2 type bi-planes; 2 were Mosquitos. Fourteen planes of various types had been stripped or were undergoing repairs. There were at least 5 planes in the air the entire time. No insignia were observed on any of the planes.
