3. [Redacted] plans drawn up by the SMA in March 1947 involved the movement of eight to ten divisions, within a six to eight week period, from Thuringia and Saxony to Brandenburg, and from southeastern Europe to Thuringia and Saxony. These plans are alleged to call for a large concentration of troops in the Berlin area, with 20,000 at Fürstenwalde (V33) and 15,000 at Eberswalde (V08). Troops for the latter town were to have arrived by the end of August.
