2. In the various Mongol Banners within Chinese Communist territory, men between the ages of 18 and 30 are being conscripted for basic military training. It is estimated that there will be about 45,000 impressed into service. These men will be used to replace those Chinese Communist troops who are known to have once served under MA Chan-shan.

3. Groups of armed Mongols totaling about 4,000 men, who were stationed in the Aershan (120-17, 47-12), Buir Nor, Solon (121-24, 46-41) and Manchouli (117-27, 49-26) areas, have been transferred to Kannan (123-27, 47-56), Puhsi (124-29, 48-33) and Noho (124-51, 48-29). In their place are three regiments of the Heilungchiang Provincial Peoples' Allied Army. The officers and men of these units are Northerners who cooperated with the Chinese Communist Army after the surrender.
