1. Approximately fifty per cent of the Mukden Soviet community members, who were completely loyal to the USSR and Soviet representatives in China at the beginning of the winter of 1947, have become extremely dissatisfied because Soviet officials have been neglecting their interests. The USSR Embassy officials at Nanking have been particularly indifferent to the low standard of living and privations a majority of the Mukden Soviet citizens are forced to endure. If the Mukden-Tientsin Railroad opens up a large number of them will go to North China, although they have no relatives there and no prospect of earning a living.
2. Although dissatisfaction is steadily increasing, there is little likelihood that an active anti-Soviet cadre group will be formed in Mukden, as these Soviet citizens believe that the Chinese Communists and Soviet troops will eventually re-occupy the Mukden area.
