SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.

1. The brother of Abd-el-Krim, the Emir Mohammed, recently stated in private conversation that the Moroccans have no alternative but to resort to force if they are to bring Spain around to an equitable solution of their problems. He feels that the present Spanish government is losing its grip, but this a matter of indifference since, in his opinion, even a change of regime in Spain would not bring about any basic revision of the present policy in Morocco.
2. The Emir Mohammed is skeptical of the value of collaboration between the Moroccans and the minorities of the Iberian peninsula with the aim of unseating Spanish centralism. He feels that at the crucial moment each group would forget its commitments to the rest and concentrate on advancing its own interests.
