1. Nicaraguan revolutionaries marking time in Costa Rica have been unable to obtain concrete support from Guatemala, El Salvador, or Honduras because of current internal problems but have been assured that these three countries will form an anti-Somoza bloc following the assumption of the Honduran presidency by Juan Calvez on 1 January 1949.
2. All Nicaraguan factions in Costa Rica want to start operations against Somoza as soon as possible, but they have been unable to agree upon a date. It is estimated that ten days of preparation will be needed after any date fixed.
3. Jose Figueres holds the key to future revolutionary action since he has possession of all armament, including that received from Cuba during the recent rouble with the Calderonistas. Figueres personally sides with the revolutionaries, but is meeting heavy resistance on the part of other members of the Costa Rican junta, who are in favor of kicking all revolutionists out of the country and handing their problems over to the Council of the Organization of American States.
4. In the event the revolutionaries are forced to leave, they are expected to go to Cuba, El Salvador, and Colombia.
