- 54. Several kilometers east of the city is located the Smyshlyayevka airport. Until about 1946, a "transmission regiment" was stationed at this airport, whose function it was to receive the planes produced by Kuybyshev aircraft factories and to fly them to a destination indicated by the Ministry of Defense. After 1946 a special base was established at Smyshlyayevka airport for the retention of complete aircraft, since, apparently, it was notlonger necessary to dispatch these planes to military units. These planes were heavily greased, covered with hoods, and left in the open.
- 55. Until 1945 there was stationed at Smyshlyayevka the Second Separate Leader Air Squadron (Vtoraya Otdelnaya Avaatsionnaya Eskadrilya Liderov). It was so named because the planes belonging to this squadron escorted new planes being taken from the factories over routes unfamiliar to their pilots.
