Reportedly, a large number of deportees from the Banat have been brought to the Lake Tasaul project. This construction project which was started during the summer of 1950 is apparently to be an auxiliary naval base. The initial construction work indicates that underground and submarine shelters are planned. Reportedly, the plans are to include a canal connecting the lake with Cape Midia; the dike at the latter point is to be extended to protect the entrance to the canal, allowing it to be approached only from the south.
