[REDACTED]

1. A special security school is reported to be operating somewhere in Northern Moldavia, probably in some small town in the northern section of the Botosani district, near the Bessarabian border. The school is stated to be training special shock formations of civilians which in the event of an armed conflict, will have the task of forestalling civilian uprisings, partisan action, and enemy paratroop attacks behind the lines. They will also provide counter-espionage units to cope with any enemy agents that might be parachuted in the event of war.
2. Students are instructed in the handling of automatic small-arms, hand grenades, and radio apparatus, and, in general, in commando tactics and methods. Reportedly, about 500 students are currently quartered in wooden barracks, under close Soviet supervision, and completely isolated.
