When the North Kiangsu Air Base Command was established, Huaiyin (119-05, 33-35) Airfield was placed under its control and classed as an auxiliary field because it lacked facilities to handle bombers. The East China Command has decided to expand the field's facilities and extend its runways. On 15 January Chief of Construction LIU Ming (刘明) and Chief of Administration LIN (林) of the East China Air Supply Service Command were sent to inspect the field. Construction is to begin in April.
