- 1. In late February 1952 the Chinese Communists were moving replacement and training divisions from north Kwangtung to the Canton-Kowloon railroad area. A tank unit of the 15 Army Group moved to Nant'ou (113-56, 22-31).
- 2. Three battalions of an artillery regiment of the 15 Army Group were stationed on the south Kwangtung coast at Taya Bay and Tapeng Bay.
- Chinese Communist troops on both banks of the Pearl River Estuary and on islands in the estuary were exchanging posts frequently.
- 4. In December 1951 the Central and South China Military Area Supply and Service Department completed the construction of twenty warehouses at Hutiehkang (城 歲) and Changchou (長 洲), southeast of Whampoa. In December 1951 and January 1952 marine mines, shells, steel plates, copper bars and diesel engines from Hankow, Manchuria and Macao were stored in these warehouses, which were declared restricted areas by the Chinese Communists. During February flour, rubber, pitch, cement and phosphorus from Hong Kong were stored in these warehouses.
