1. On 26 June 1952 the Chinese Communist local cadre training class of Hunan was in the former Japanese consulate at Shuiluchou (3055/7120/3166), opposite Tahsimen (1129/6007/7024), in Ch'angsha (112-58, 28-12). The school gave basic training to hsien and ch'u cadre members, emphasizing Communist Party principles. The course included the study of Communist leaflets on various topics and the following special Communist documents:
 - a. "Chinese Communist Party Regulations", compiled by the dean's office of the Communist Party Academy of the Chinese Communist Party's North China Bureau.
 - b. "On the Fundamentals of Leninism", by Stalin.
 - c. "Rectification of the Incorrect Inclination of the Party", by MAO Tse-tung.
 - d. "The Position of the Chinese Communist Party on the Racial War", by MAO Tse-tung.
 - e. "On the Coalition Government", by MAO Tse-tung.
 - f. "The Current Situation and Our Task", by MAO Tse-tung.
 - g. "On the People's Democratic Dictatorship", by MAO Tse-tung.
 - h. "On the Cultivation of Communist Party Members", by LIU Shao-ch'i.
 - i. "Policies in the Directives of the Chinese Communist Central Authorities", by LIU Shao-ch'i.

2. The first training class started on 1 March 1951, and at that time it was attached to the military and political college at Nanyuehmiac (113-16, 29-). By late June 1952 three thousand and thirty-six persons had completed training and the seventh class was in progress. There have been four classes annually. The duration of the first and second of these classes was one and one-half months each and the duration of the third class was three months. Trainees for the first and second annual class were selected from the military and political college.¹ Trainees for the third annual class were selected from the various hsien and ch'u by the local Communist Party organizations. Some students were transferred to the classes from highschool. There was no restriction of age or sex for trainees.
3. In June 1952 HUANG K'o-ch'eng (7806/0344/6134)² was the nominal head of the training class and LIN Sung-t'ao (2651/2646/3447) was the actual head of the training class. LIN, aged 48 years, is a senior Chinese Communist cadre member and a native of Hunan. During the Yen-an period, he was a member of the local Communist committee in Ch'angsha and was responsible for underground activities in east Hunan. Prior to the capture of Hunan by the Communists, LIN was connected with CH'ENG Ch'ien (4453/3383)³ and he also played an important part in persuading CH'EN Ming-jen (7115/2494/0088)⁴ to defect to the Communists

1. In early June 1952 the Communist women's association in Hengyang (112-36, 26-24) received orders from the Central and South China Military Area to make 100,000 pairs of cotton shoes before the end of August and to obtain the required materials for making the shoes from the Hengyang Bedding and Uniform Factory. On 9 June the women's association issued the following directive regarding this work:
 - a. All women in Hengyang between the ages of 16 and 45 are to participate in this work.
 - b. Each woman must make at least one pair of shoes, which must be returned to the women's association within two weeks after the receipt of the material for the shoes.
 - c. A dependent of a deceased soldier will receive a payment of three catties of rice for each pair of shoes she makes.
 - d. A dependent of an active soldier will receive a payment of two catties of rice for each pair of shoes she makes.
 - e. A woman who is not a member of the women's association, which includes family members of landlords and reactionaries, is to make two pairs of shoes without pay.
2. In early June the following cities in Hunan were notified by the Central and South China Military Area to make shoes but, since the material for making them was not available, quotas were not set for each city:
