YUGOSLAVIAN GROUND FORCES EQUIPMENT AND ORGANIZATION (S)

INTRODUCTION

- 1. (S/D) This report provides the first complete imagery-derived analysis of equipment trends, unit identifications, and order of battle in the ground forces of the Yugoslav People's Army (YPA), Yugoslavia. Information for this detailed analysis was derived from imagery acquired from April 1980 through December 1981. Military unit designators and subordination were derived from a collateral document.¹ The equipment and activity observed have indicated that some units are better equipped than was previously believed and that the YPA is engaged in upgrading its ground forces. The reported¹ locations of a number of units, as previously reported in NPIC cables, have been changed (see tables), and several new brigadesized units have been identified. Also, heavy infantry battalions of the Yugoslavian militia have been identified for the first time.
- 2. (S/D) This report contains ten tables. Table 1 presents the observed deployment of the M-1974 howitzer; eight tables provide a breakdown of YPA ground forces into army-level units, divisions, brigades, and units of unknown subordination in each army region (Tables 2 through 8) and in the Titograd region (Table 9). Table 10 outlines the disposition of militia units. A location map (Figure 1) and seven annotated photographs are also included in this report.

DESCRIPTION

Equipment Upgrading

- 3. (S/D) The YPA has been introducing new ground force equipment and retiring obsolescent items to improve the firepower and mobility of units. The most significant new piece of equipment recently introduced is the Soviet 122mm self-propelled (SP) howitzer M-1974. It has been seen with six units (Figures 2 and 3 and Table 1).
- 4. (S/D) Also recently introduced into active units is the Yugoslavian 128mm multiple rocket launcher (MRL) M-1975 (Yugoslavian designator M-77²). On this MRL was identified with the artillery training regiment in Zadar. A probable MRL was identified with the artillery regiment in Knin (Table 5).
- 5. (S/D) Army-level artillery regiments are also being reequipped with newer weapons. These units apparently were originally equipped with US World War II-vintage 155/203mm guns M-2. These weapons have been almost entirely replaced by the Soviet 130mm field gun M-46 (Figure 4) and 152mm gunhowitzer ML-20. Four regiments now have the M-46, two have the ML-20, and one still has the M-2. The type of artillery at two other artillery regiments has not been determined.
- 6. (S/D) Two types of divisional and brigade artillery units are receiving new equipment. The Soviet 100mm antitank (AT) gun T-12 is replacing the old US M-36B2 SP AT guns in the AT battalions of divisions and the AT batteries of brigades. The Soviet 122mm howitzer D-30 (Figure 5) is replacing the Yugoslavian 105mm howitzer M-56 in the divisional artillery regiments. This trend will probably continue since the D-30 is now being produced in Yugoslavia under license from the Soviet Union.<sup>3</sup>
- 7. (S/D) A review of imagery has revealed that YPA infantry regiments are better equipped than was previously believed. Most, if not all, have organic tank units. Deployment patterns suggest that one tank company is assigned to each infantry battalion. Units of lower strength may have a tank platoon for each infantry battalion. Many regimental artillery batteries are equipped with the 155mm howitzer M-65 rather than with the 105mm and 122mm guns.
- 8. (S/D) Throughout the YPA, the Yugoslavian FAP-2026—a 5-ton, 6-by-6 cargo truck (Figure 6)—is replacing the US World War II-vintage M-4 and M-5 artillery tractors in artillery and antiaircraft artillery units. This replacement provides significantly increased reliability and decreased maintenance requirements.

New Units

- 9. (S/D) A probable mechanized infantry brigade and a possible mechanized infantry unit have been identified in the 1st Army Region. A possible infantry brigade may be forming in the 3rd Army Region, and a previously undetected infantry brigade may be in the 9th Army Region.
- 10. (S/D) In the 1st Army Region, elements of the probable mechanized infantry brigade are in Cacak and Pozega. Two mechanized infantry battalions, a probable mechanized infantry battalion, a chemical defense company, and an unidentified unit are in Cacak (Figure 7); in addition, a tank battalion is in Pozega, approximately 10 nautical miles (nm) west of Cacak. The possible mechanized infantry unit is near Belgrade (Beograd); a tank battalion, a mechanized infantry company, and an artillery unit were identified in a recently constructed installation.

- 11. (S/D) A possible infantry brigade may be forming near the Bulgarian border at Strumica in the 3rd Army Region. The unit there has been reported as being an infantry regiment subordinate to the 16th Infantry Division.¹ However, there are more support units present than are needed for an infantry regiment. These units include an artillery battalion equipped with the 152mm howitzer D-1, an anti-aircraft battalion, and a chemical defense company. In addition, two new vehicle storage areas have been constructed, and training facilities have been upgraded in the past two years.
- 12. (S/D) An analysis of units in Adjovscina and Vipava, 9th Army Region, suggests the presence of a possible infantry brigade on the Italian border. These units have been reported as being elements of an infantry regiment subordinate to the 1st Infantry Division.¹ Units identified in the two towns include four infantry battalions, an artillery battalion, an antiaircraft battalion, a probable tank battalion, a possible SP AT battery, and an engineer company.

Units in the Yugoslavian Militia

13. (S/D) Yugoslavian militia heavy infantry battalions have been identified and located for the first time. The militia is a paramilitary force used for internal security. One of these heavy infantry battalions evidently was the first outside unit sent into Kosovo Province to suppress riots in the spring of 1981. A militia heavy infantry battalion is equipped with six to eight TAB-72 armored personnel carriers (APC), 20 Pinzgauer 4-by-4 vehicles (built in Austria), ten AR-51 utility vehicles, and five cargo trucks. Also, police cars may be collocated with a battalion (Figure 8). Single heavy infantry battalions have been identified in Ljubljana, Maribor, Sarajevo, Split, Nis, and Titograd. Three heavy infantry battalions have been identified in Belgrade. Each city where a heavy infantry battalion has been observed includes a headquarters for either a military region or a military district. These militia units are probably at all similar headquarters locations.
