

10/1/82
Executive Security
92-12520

The Brookings Institution

1775 MASSACHUSETTS AVENUE N.W. WASHINGTON D.C. 20036 / CABLES: BROOKINST TELEPHONE: (202) 797-6000

Advanced Study Program

1 October 1982

The Honorable John McMahon
Deputy Director of Central Intelligence
The Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C. 20505

Dear John:

This letter seeks your help with a "Seminar on Public Policy" being sponsored by The Brookings Institution in cooperation with Nova University on 14-17 November 1982.

It specifically asks for the opportunity to visit CIA on November 17, 1982, have a lunch in the Executive Dining Room (to be paid by Brookings) followed by a short briefing with opportunity to ask questions and/or make observations within the confines of unclassified content. We hope this can be accomplished with an arrival at 12:30, and a departure no later than 3:30. Note: if that date and time is unsuitable, either the 15th or 16th can be arranged in our program schedule.

You may recall that I brought a similar group of Nova alumni to the Agency last year. Bobby Inman met with us for a short period following the substantive coverage. Hopefully, your schedule will permit you to meet with us for some part of the visit. I take personal pride in having them meet you and be exposed to the insights gained by your own public management experiences.

The participants in the program have earned their doctorates in business and public administration; they are employed in public service careers at the Federal, State, or local levels or in business, education and criminal justice functions. They are in their 40's and active practitioners, and are U.S. citizens. They seek to better understand the management issues facing government and business in the public context and to get a first-hand exposure to substantive areas of foreign affairs. An unclassified, off the record, informal briefing on the Middle East, Central America, etc. or on such matters as the International Economic Outlook would be most appropriate. Coverage in discussion of Agency administrative tasks, processes, constraints and scope would also prove topical for this group. Their program schedule includes visits with policy people across Executive agencies and the Congress. Therefore, the role of intelligence in relation to such groups will provide important insight.

10
OCT
1982

The Brookings Institution

1

1111 MASSACHUSETTS AVENUE N.W. WASHINGTON D.C. 20036, CABLES: BROOKINGS TELEPHONE: (202) 797-6000

Advanced Study Program

The visit to CIA last year was the high point of the Seminar. As I told Admiral Inman, the perspective gained of the Agency's commitment to purpose, orderliness in execution of its mission, quality of its people, and depth of insights into complex international matters provided an experience beyond description that has been lasting to these public managers. I sincerely hope we can repeat this year, and I look forward to personally escorting the group there.

The senior Brookings staff person directing the conference for Brookings is Peter Malof. Peter is known to many Agency persons and has a distinguished career. He is available to Agency staff at 797 6281 to work out the details. Please name a contact point he may use. I shall be working directly with the program for Nova, but may be reached at Brookings 797 6281, at Nova in Washington, 783 1044, or after 12 October 1982 at my home number [REDACTED]

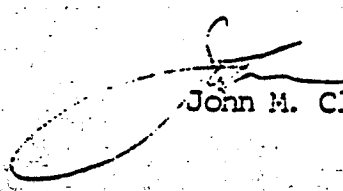

STAT

I alerted [REDACTED] that this letter would be coming and also that I will be looking forward to arranging our elusive lunch when you return in late October or early November and will be seeing you on November 1, at [REDACTED]

STAT

STAT

Warm regards,

John M. Clarke