

25X1A
RESTRICTION

SECRET

25X1A
ORGANIZATION
25 June 1954

OFFICE OF SCIENTIFIC INTELLIGENCE

000289

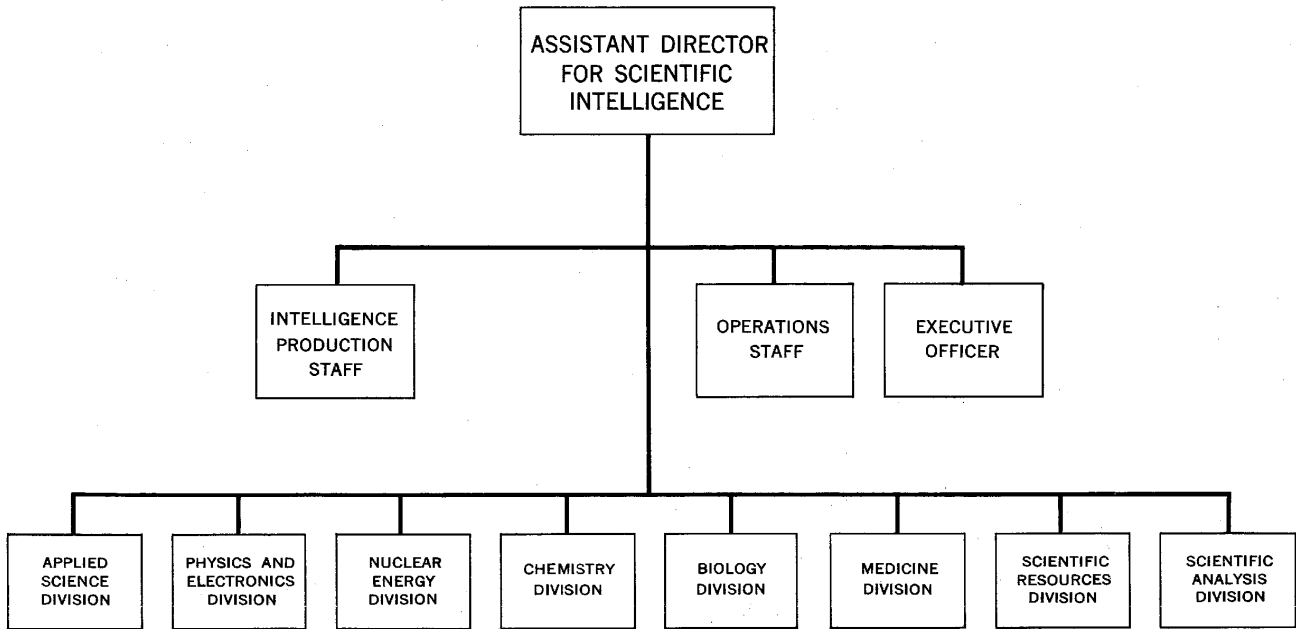

Figure 6

13103 CIA, 6-54

HS/HC-147

SECRET

~~SECRET~~25X1A
REGULATION

CHANGE 1

ORGANIZATION
25 June 1954OFFICE OF SCIENTIFIC INTELLIGENCE*16. MISSION

The Assistant Director for Scientific Intelligence is charged with establishing and maintaining the Agency scientific and technical intelligence research and production program, with producing scientific and technical intelligence in accordance with the responsibilities of the Agency, and with providing advice and making recommendations on scientific and technical intelligence matters to the Director of Central Intelligence and other officers and Offices of the Agency. The responsibility of the Assistant Director for Scientific Intelligence extends to intelligence on the development, characteristics, and performance capabilities of foreign devices, products, equipments, and systems, but not to intelligence on volumes, economic capabilities and technological methods of production except that, the Assistant Director for Scientific Intelligence is responsible for all aspects of atomic energy intelligence.

17. FUNCTIONS

The Assistant Director for Scientific Intelligence shall:

- a. Establish and maintain, on the basis of the national intelligence objectives and other national security requirements, the Agency intelligence research and production program in the field of scientific and technical intelligence.
- b. Conduct research and produce intelligence on fundamental research in the basic sciences, on basic scientific resources, on medicine (excluding military medicine), on atomic energy, and on pertinent applied research and development for purposes of national intelligence, for Chapter VII of the NIS, and to meet the needs in these fields of other intelligence organizations and Government agencies.
- c. Correlate and evaluate all-source scientific and technical intelligence produced by other intelligence agencies, to meet the needs of the Director and other officers and Offices of the Agency in fulfillment of their assigned responsibilities, and, where necessary, conduct research and produce scientific and technical intelligence to supplement that produced by other agencies.
- d. Provide advice and make recommendations to the Director and other officers and Offices of the Agency on methods for improving the coordination and other activities of the scientific and technical intelligence effort of the Federal departments and agencies related to the national security.
- e. Provide advice and assistance to the Assistant Director for National Estimates including scientific and technical intelligence contributions to national estimates.
- f. Provide all-source current scientific and technical intelligence as needed by the Assistant Director for Current Intelligence and other officers and Offices of CIA.
- g. Establish and maintain necessary collection requirements in the scientific and technical intelligence field for the collecting components of CIA as well as other agencies, and provide appropriate assistance, assessment, evaluation, and guidance in support of the collection activities of such components.
- h. Provide appropriate advice to other offices of the Agency, as requested, on requirements served on CIA for scientific and technical intelligence and intelligence information.
- i. Study and develop techniques and methods relating to the scientific and technical intelligence process and recommend employment where appropriate.

25X1A

SECRET

REGULATION

ORGANIZATION
10 August 1954

25X1A

OFFICE OF SCIENTIFIC INTELLIGENCE

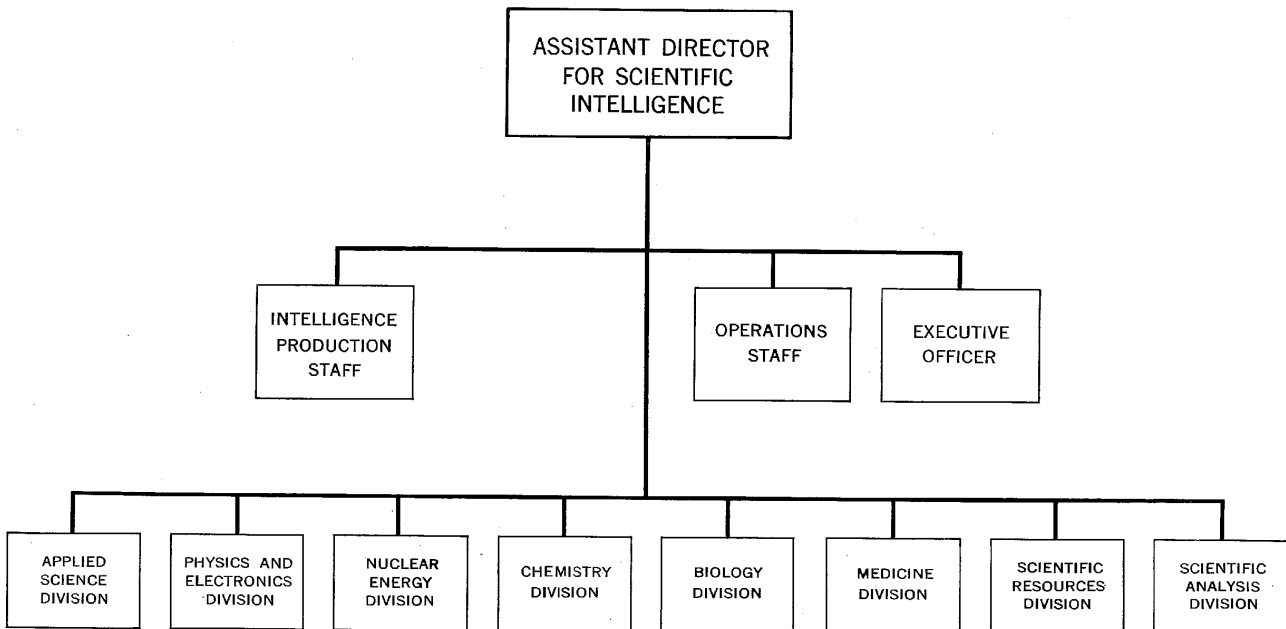

Figure 6

HS/HC-147

SECRET

SECRET25X1A
REGULATIONORGANIZATION
10 August 1954OFFICE OF SCIENTIFIC INTELLIGENCE*14. MISSION

The Assistant Director for Scientific Intelligence is charged with establishing and maintaining the Agency scientific and technical intelligence research and production program, with producing scientific and technical intelligence in accordance with the responsibilities of the Agency, and with providing advice and making recommendations on scientific and technical intelligence matters to the Director of Central Intelligence and other officers and Offices of the Agency. The responsibility of the Assistant Director for Scientific Intelligence extends to intelligence on the development, characteristics, and performance capabilities of foreign devices, products, equipments, and systems, but not to intelligence on volumes, economic capabilities and technological methods of production except that, the Assistant Director for Scientific Intelligence is responsible for all aspects of atomic energy intelligence.

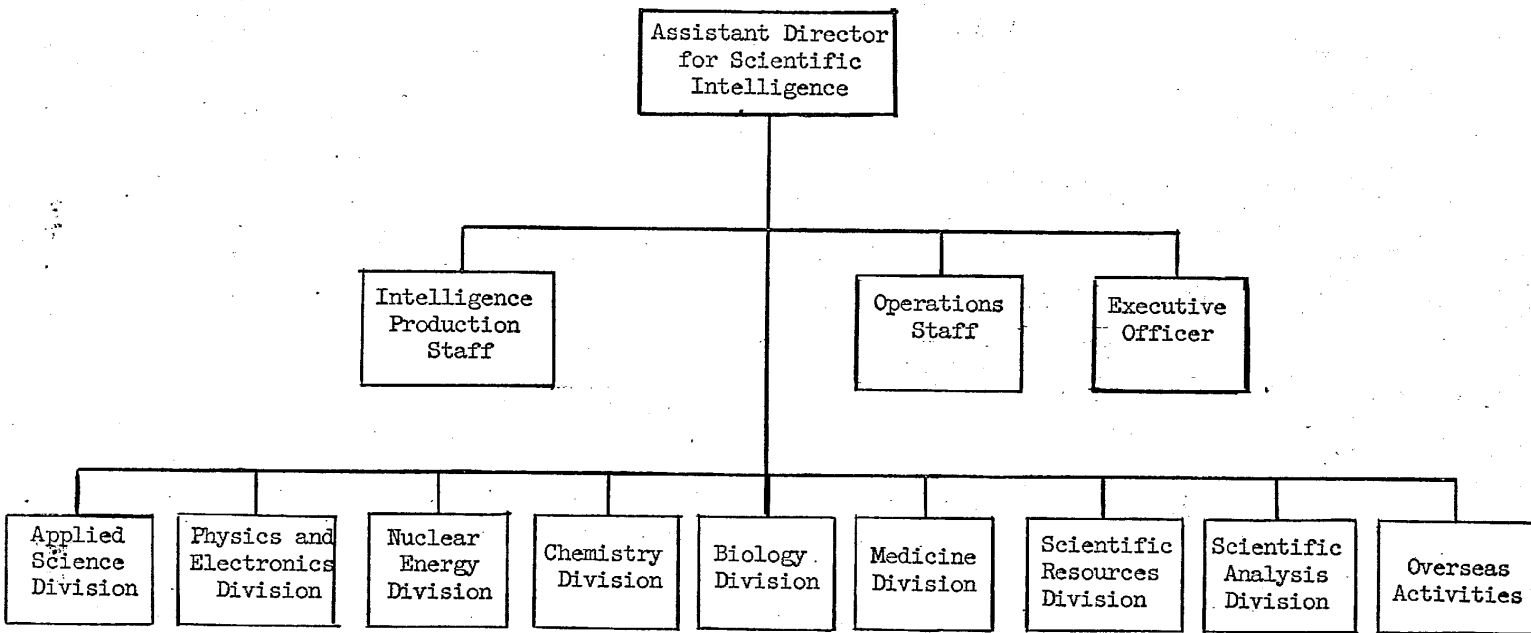

15. FUNCTIONS

The Assistant Director for Scientific Intelligence shall:

- a. Establish and maintain, on the basis of the national intelligence objectives and other national security requirements, the Agency intelligence research and production program in the field of scientific and technical intelligence.
- b. Conduct research and produce intelligence on fundamental research in the basic sciences, on basic scientific resources, on medicine (excluding military medicine), on atomic energy, and on pertinent applied research and development for purposes of national intelligence, for Chapter VII of the NIS, and to meet the needs in these fields of other intelligence organizations and Government agencies.
- c. Correlate and evaluate all-source scientific and technical intelligence produced by other intelligence agencies, to meet the needs of the Director and other officers and Offices of the Agency in fulfillment of their assigned responsibilities, and, where necessary, conduct research and produce scientific and technical intelligence to supplement that produced by other agencies.
- d. Provide advice and make recommendations to the Director and other officers and Offices of the Agency on methods for improving the coordination and other activities of the scientific and technical intelligence effort of the Federal departments and agencies related to the national security.
- e. Provide advice and assistance to the Assistant Director for National Estimates including scientific and technical intelligence contributions to national estimates.
- f. Provide all-source current scientific and technical intelligence as needed by the Assistant Director for Current Intelligence and other officers and Offices of CIA.
- g. Establish and maintain necessary collection requirements in the scientific and technical intelligence field for the collecting components of CIA as well as other agencies, and provide appropriate assistance, assessment, evaluation, and guidance in support of the collection activities of such components.
- h. Provide appropriate advice to other offices of the Agency, as requested, on requirements served on CIA for scientific and technical intelligence and intelligence information.
- i. Study and develop techniques and methods relating to the scientific and technical intelligence process and recommend employment where appropriate.

SECRET

OFFICE OF SCIENTIFIC INTELLIGENCE

15 September 1954

OS/RC-147

SECRET

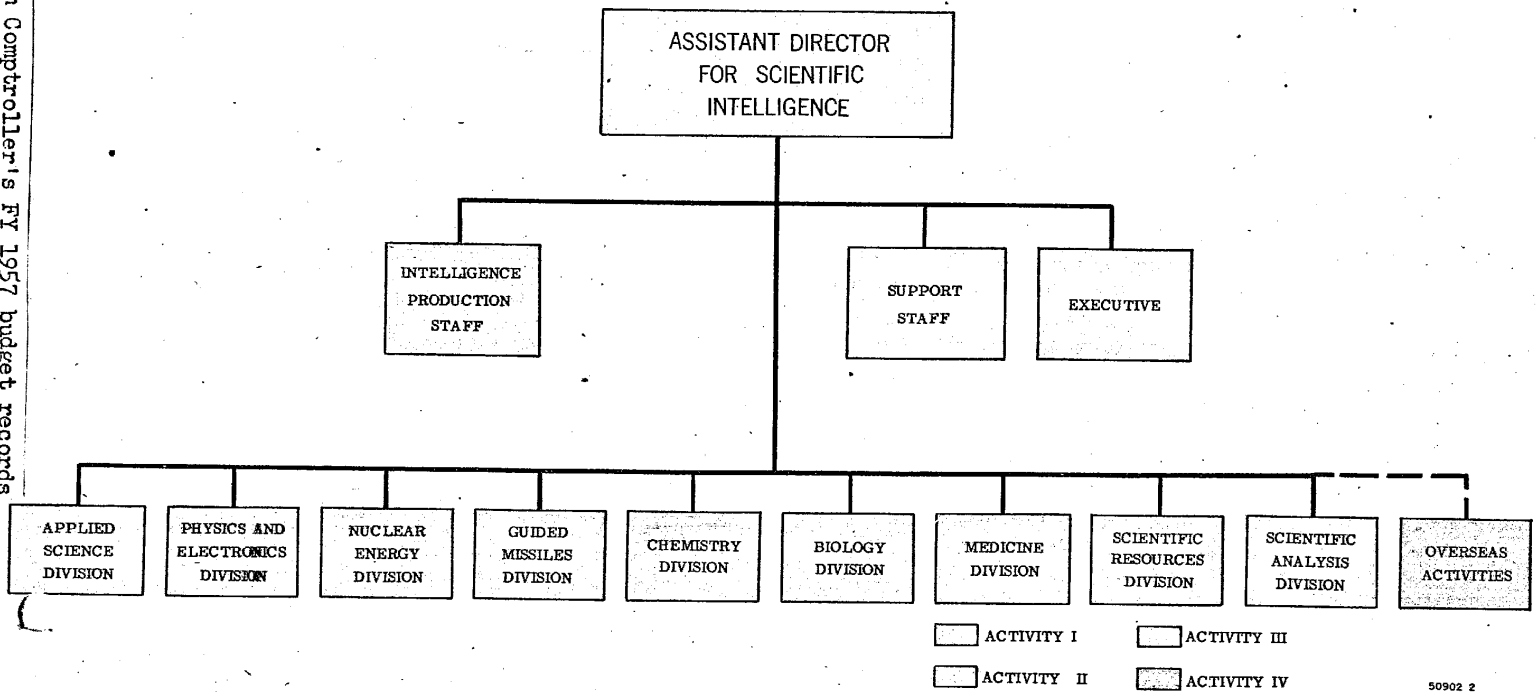

F-10-1

From Comptroller's FY 1956 budget records
(September 1954), Secret

SECRET

OFFICE OF SCIENTIFIC INTELLIGENCE

From Comptroller's FY 1957 budget records (September 1955). Secret

HS/HC-147

SECRET

25X1A

25X1A
DECLASSIFICATION

SECRET

ORGANIZATION
9 December 1955

OFFICE OF SCIENTIFIC INTELLIGENCE

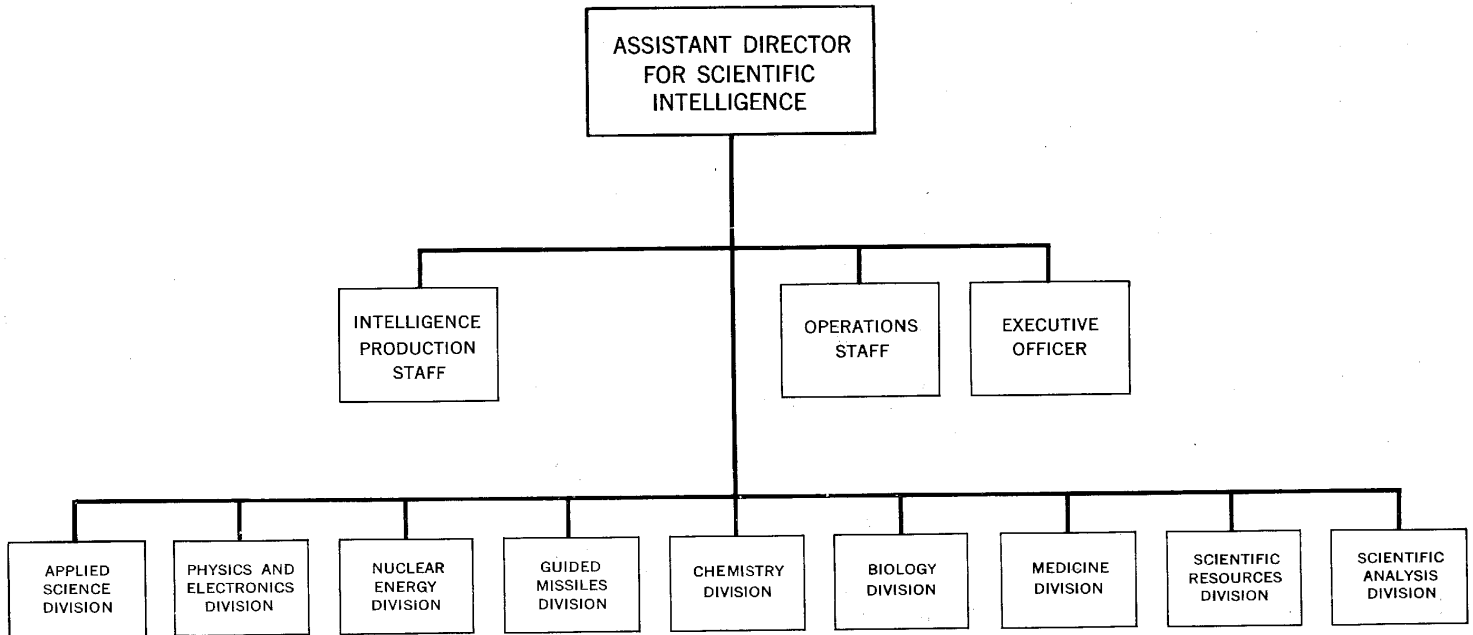

Figure 6

HS/HC-147

SECRET

25X1A
REGULATIONORGANIZATION
9 December 1955OFFICE OF CURRENT INTELLIGENCE*11. MISSION

The Assistant Director for Current Intelligence is charged with producing and disseminating all-source current intelligence, with providing current intelligence support for the Central Intelligence Agency and other agencies as directed. The Assistant Director for Current Intelligence as the COMINT staff officer to the Director of Central Intelligence (a) is the Agency's member of USCIB, on which Board he represents the overall interests of CIA in deliberations concerning COMINT and in the resultant establishment of national policies governing COMINT; (b) pursuant to USCIB policies, establishes and administers the CIA COMINT program, including its security, utilization and liaison functions; (c) discharges certain other CIA responsibilities under USCIB directives.

12. FUNCTIONS

The Assistant Director for Current Intelligence shall:

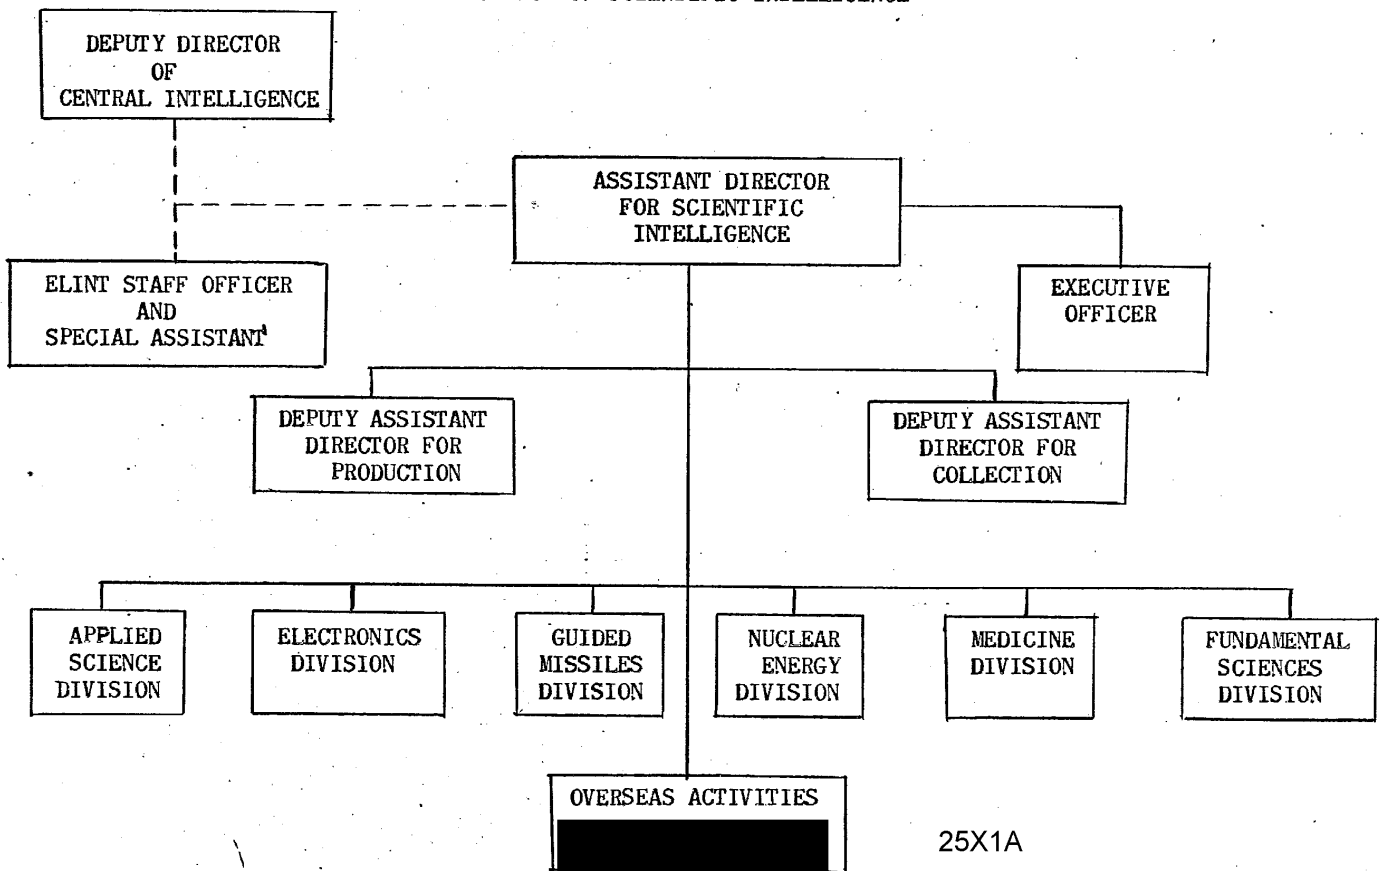

- a. Produce all-source current intelligence and provide internal and external current intelligence briefing and support as directed.
- b. Maintain a 24-hour Central Intelligence Agency Watch.
- c. Give appropriate substantive support to the IAC Watch Committee and provide administrative and substantive support for the National Indications Center, as directed.
- d. Represent the Central Intelligence Agency in formulation of policies and procedures relating to procurement, utilization, and exploitation, security and control of COMINT.
- e. Supervise the COMINT activities and contacts of Central Intelligence Agency personnel with other agencies.
- f. Direct the preparation, execution, and administration of the Agency COMINT program.
- g. Perform special functions as specified by the Director of Central Intelligence.

13. ORGANIZATION

See organization chart, figure 5.

S-E-C-R-E-T

OFFICE OF SCIENTIFIC INTELLIGENCE

25X1A

From Comptroller's FY 1958 budget records (September 1956), Secret

SECRET

25X1A

CHANGE 1

ORGANIZATION
2 October 1956

REGULATION

25X1A

OFFICE OF SCIENTIFIC INTELLIGENCE

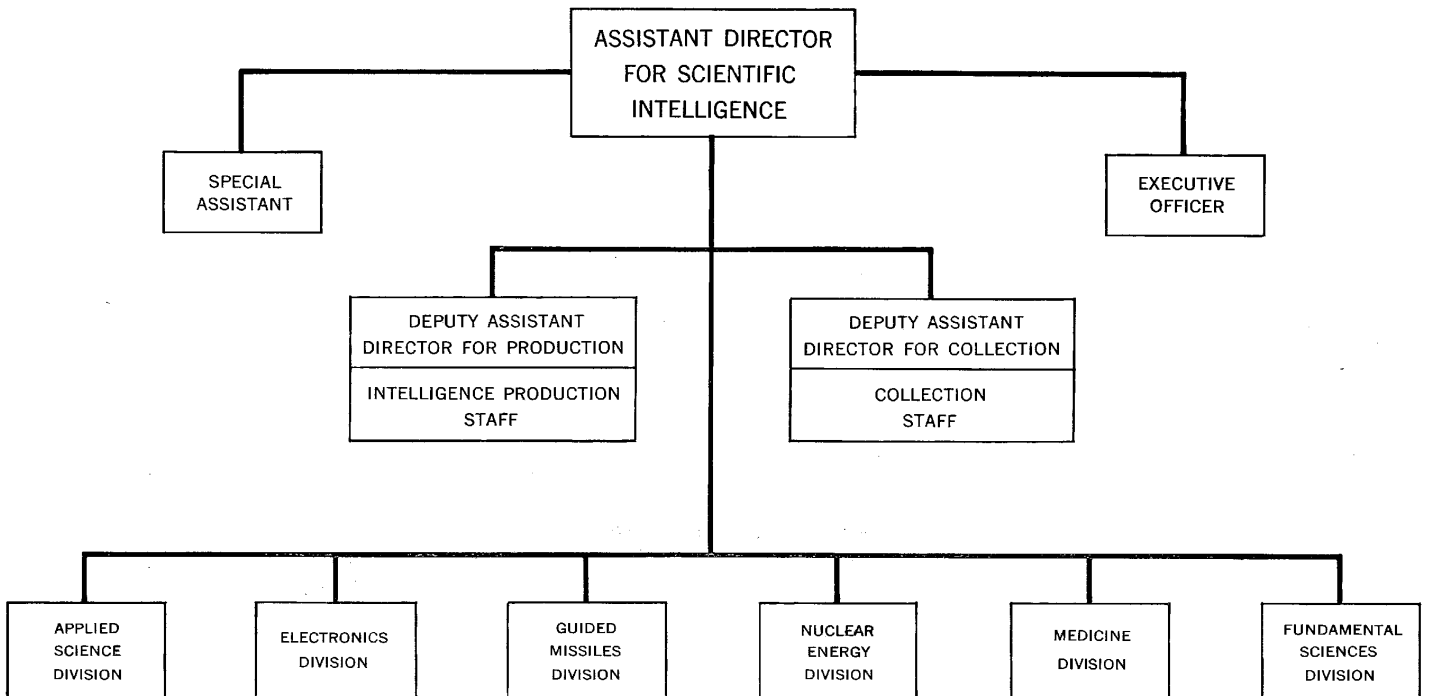

Figure 6

HS/HC-147 SECRET

SECRET

REGULATION

25X1A

ORGANIZATION
9 December 1955

OFFICE OF CURRENT INTELLIGENCE

11. MISSION

The Assistant Director for Current Intelligence is charged with producing and disseminating all-source current intelligence, with providing current intelligence support for the Central Intelligence Agency and other agencies as directed. The Assistant Director for Current Intelligence as the COMINT staff officer to the Director of Central Intelligence (a) is the Agency's member of USCIB, on which Board he represents the overall interests of CIA in deliberations concerning COMINT and in the resultant establishment of national policies governing COMINT; (b) pursuant to USCIB policies, establishes and administers the CIA COMINT program, including its security, utilization and liaison functions; (c) discharges certain other CIA responsibilities under USCIB directives.

12. FUNCTIONS

The Assistant Director for Current Intelligence shall:

- a. Produce all-source current intelligence and provide internal and external current intelligence briefing and support as directed.
- b. Maintain a 24-hour Central Intelligence Agency Watch.
- c. Give appropriate substantive support to the IAC Watch Committee and provide administrative and substantive support for the National Indications Center, as directed.
- d. Represent the Central Intelligence Agency in formulation of policies and procedures relating to procurement, utilization, and exploitation, security and control of COMINT.
- e. Supervise the COMINT activities and contacts of Central Intelligence Agency personnel with other agencies.
- f. Direct the preparation, execution, and administration of the Agency COMINT program.
- g. Perform special functions as specified by the Director of Central Intelligence.

13. ORGANIZATION

See organization chart, figure 5.

SECRET

SECRET

25X1A

25X1A
REGULATION

ORGANIZATION
Revised 16 June 1960

OFFICE OF SCIENTIFIC INTELLIGENCE

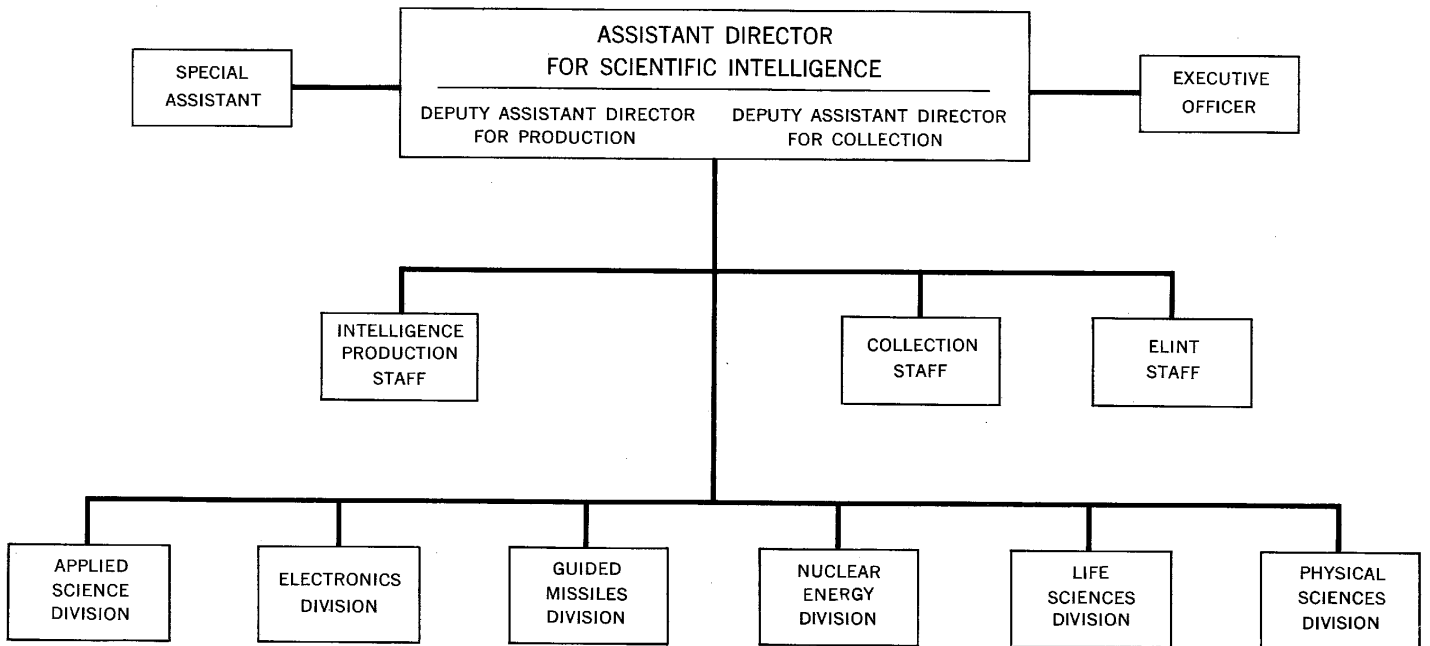

Figure 6

HS/HC-147

SECRET

OFFICE OF CURRENT INTELLIGENCE11. MISSION

The Assistant Director for Current Intelligence is charged with producing and disseminating all-source current intelligence and providing current-intelligence support for the Central Intelligence Agency and other agencies, as directed. The Assistant Director for Current Intelligence as the CIA COMINT officer to the Director of Central Intelligence shall:

- a. Advise and assist the Director of Central Intelligence in the formulation, implementation, and coordination of COMINT policies;
- b. Coordinate the CIA COMINT program;
- c. Provide centralized guidance for the conduct of CIA COMINT activities in accordance with policies established by USIB; and
- d. Act for the Director in COMINT matters, as appropriate.

12. FUNCTIONS

The Assistant Director for Current Intelligence shall:

- a. Produce all-source current intelligence and provide internal and external current-intelligence briefing and support, as directed.
- b. Maintain a 24-hour Central Intelligence Agency Watch.
- c. Give appropriate substantive support to the USIB Watch Committee and provide administrative and substantive support for the National Indications Center, as directed.
- d. Advise and assist the Director of Central Intelligence in the formulation, implementation, and coordination of national COMINT policies.
- e. Provide a centralized facility for acquainting CIA components with COMINT matters considered by USIB and coordinating the Agency approach to such matters.
- f. Conduct CIA liaison with the National Security Agency and other USIB members in matters affecting COMINT policy.
- g. Develop, recommend, and coordinate the establishment and operation of the CIA COMINT program.
- h. Develop and publish CIA regulations governing the procurement, use, exploitation, security, and control of COMINT, based on USIB policies.
- i. Provide a central CIA facility for the receipt and dissemination of COMINT and intelligence based on COMINT.
- j. Develop and operate the CIA COMINT security program.
- k. Coordinate COMINT support as required for the CIA ELINT program.
- l. Perform special functions as specified by the Director of Central Intelligence.

13. ORGANIZATION

See organization chart, figure 5.