MEMORANDUM FOR: Acting Deputy Director for Support

SUBJECT : For your DDs Meeting
Some Gut Issues re the Senior Seminar

1. Do our senior officers - good GS-15's and supergrades - really need training? Does participation in a good training program help a senior officer do his job better, or help him when he takes on a more responsible job, and thus improve the capability and effectiveness of the Agency? For what number of our officers, GS-15 and up, do these conditions apply?

2. Does the Senior Seminar, based on the experience of two runnings, cut the mustard?

3. If a decision is made to continue the Senior Seminar, we must keep trying to keep it a high quality program and work constantly to improve it - thus making it more valuable to the Agency.

a. It must be kept vigorous and current. Twice a year is ideal. Once a year means the operators of the Seminar forget the lessons learned before the next running a year away.

b. OTR will have problems keeping a staff together to run it only once a year.

c. The Senior Seminar is the Agency's principal Executive Development training program. The Seminar is a good safety valve to show we are in step with administration policy in the area. Forty officers a year - out of an Agency population of GS-15's and supergrades  - is not a heavy drain.

d. The Senior Seminar, as the cap-stone of our pyramid, completes the training cycle from EOD to Midcareer to Senior responsibility.

4. Proposal: A fall back position - If the Senior Seminar is not approved for two runnings annually.

Approve the Senior Seminar for three runnings - spring and fall - which would go through the fall running of 1973. Then take a new look at how hard it is to select participants and at the amount of interest and demand. Based on the first two runnings, OTR tells me this demand is growing, as indicated by inquiries of individual senior officers and calls from components as to the next running. But running-to-running approval only hobbles the staff and the planning of nominations. Also, almost half the time from conclusion of the last Seminar - 12 May - until the proposed start of the next - 17 September - has passed.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Support
THROUGH : Director of Medical Services
SUBJECT : Attendance at the Senior Seminar

1. Having just completed the Senior Seminar I thought that a brief report to you might be in order. This seems especially proper in view of my initial strong reluctance to be a participant in the course.

2. I must say that I think the OTR Staff responsible for the course put together an extremely fine, broad spectrum course. I did not learn anything strikingly new that will enable me to perform more effectively in my current position. However, I believe that is because being in my present position I am generally kept informed and advised on a broad front of Agency interests and concerns. It is my impression that other participants in this last seminar may not have the same advantage. In the sense of seeing and hearing how the other half lives and operates, I suggest the course is of high value. The opportunity for me to hear experts in various fields from outside the Agency is especially appreciated.

3. My overall reaction to the course is a positive one. I appreciate the opportunity for attendance and certainly endorse continuation of the Senior Seminar. In about four or five years I'll be ready for a refresher.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Executive Director

SUBJECT : Summary Views on the Future of the Senior Seminar

1. Per our conversation, I polled the Deputies with the following results:

a) DDS&T and D/PPB concur in the Director of Training and the DDS recommendation "to make the Seminar a part of the Agency's regular training program, offered twice annually, with the next running scheduled to commence in mid-September and nominations due to the Training Selection Board by 15 August."

b) ADDI concurs in the continuation of the Seminar provided there be less concern that it be for supergrades only, that it be offered once a year, and not viewed as a replacement for other senior schools (his note to me is attached).

c) Per  ADDP has substantially the same view as the ADDI but thinks something shorter than nine weeks should be offered. He asks that more emphasis be placed on experience level and prospects for total service rather than the supergrade criteria. Points to difficulty of sparing good people twice a year for nine weeks and would like to discuss the Seminar with you if you have any problem with his reservations.

2. D/PPB's report is attached. It notes that the Seminar has cost $431,000 to date, which includes salaries of Seminar staff members. You will note that it also includes the salaries of Seminar participants. I think this is misleading since these are "opportunity costs" and someone is learning by filling in for the man who is attending the Seminar.

Seminar One was completed, seven of the 20 participating officers have moved into new job assignments and two more are scheduled to do so over the next several months. Two of the 20 have been promoted, including one of those who moved into a new job assignment. It is, of course, still too early to anticipate what will happen with the participants of Seminar Two, but it is noteworthy that three of the 18 officers who completed the second running were promoted during the Seminar. All this does not suggest that a change in assignment or grade is a direct result of attending the Senior Seminar, but I believe it is fair to conclude that the first two runnings included a number of officers who were clearly marked with the potential to advance in grade and into more responsible Agency positions.

4. This does not mean that I am completely satisfied with the results of the process of nominating officers for the Senior Seminar as it has worked to date. Only seven of the 35 who were nominated for Seminar One and eight of the 21 nominated for Seminar Two were supergrades. It would be most desirable to receive a larger number of supergrade nominations for each running. As the nominations to Seminar Two totalled only 21 officers, the Training Selection Board accepted all nominees, thus eliminating the possibility of selecting participants so as to secure a strong combination of area experience and functional expertise. One officer was withdrawn prior to the running, a second soon after it began and a third failed to complete the last week. While Seminar Two as a whole did include officers with diverse functional backgrounds, it was considerably lighter in area experience than the first Seminar group. I am inclined to believe that a major factor was the brief lead time between the authorization for the second running and the deadline for nominations by the directorates. Putting the Seminar on a regularly scheduled basis with a long lead time for components and directorates to plan nominations would go far to insure that each Seminar group is strongly balanced and that alternates can be picked to take the place of officers who are withdrawn.

5. Within the concept of the core curriculum, the Senior Seminar represents the capstone of the Agency's training program and should provide the key internal training element in the Agency's executive development program. I recommend that you seek the Director's approval to make the Seminar a part of the Agency's regular training program, offered twice annually, with the next running scheduled to commence in mid-September and nominations due to the Training Selection Board by 15 August.

ATTACHMENT

Extracts from Memoranda Prepared after Senior Seminar One

"Generalizing from my own experience, there must be many other senior officials whose work has been isolated within a narrow field, who for one reason or another have never been exposed to the Midcareer Course or something comparable, and who would therefore benefit greatly from attendance at a Senior Seminar... I would recommend that the Senior Seminar be institutionalized as a regular CIA course."

David Brandwein, Director, FMSAC

"My belief that the Seminar should be continued is so strong that my comments in this memorandum are focused less on the merits of the present course than on ideas to help improve future runnings ...The Seminar was the most rewarding personal and professional experience I have had in years."

25X1

[redacted] (now) Deputy Chief,
European Division, OCI

"The recently completed Senior Seminar was the finest course, Agency or non-Agency, that I have ever attended. It was outstandingly effective in its effort to renew one's sense of personal motivation and appetite for achievement...I strongly recommend continuation of the Senior Seminar."

25X1

[redacted] Chief, Scientific and Industrial Division, IAS

"I consider it a real privilege to have been chosen to attend the Senior Seminar; I very definitely feel that it was an extremely useful course; and I would urge my associates to attend. I would definitely want to go on record as supporting the course in every possible way."

[redacted] (now) Assistant Deputy Director for Security, OS

"It was a very interesting and profitable session, and I would strongly urge that it be continued. I know of no other way in which Agency officers could acquire this type of exposure and experience, or have the opportunity to talk with senior executives in other agencies about common problems. In our compartmented work environment, there are relatively few officers whose day-to-day activities would permit them to gain an understanding of the relationships between agencies and departments, the political considerations which influence our activities, and the rapidly changing international scene."

25X1

[redacted] (now) Deputy
SSA/DDS (effective August 1972)

"Nearly all the participants in this first Seminar had spent their CIA careers in one line of professional work, often within one component. Most, therefore, had limited knowledge of the activities and programs of other Agency elements. The Seminar offered them fairly deep and quite comprehensive exposure to a broad range of Agency activities and to the objectives, operations and problems of other organizations which probably could not have been achieved through normal work routines. It was apparent that there is a strong commonality of concerns and interests among various Agency components, and both a need and a desire for improved intra-Agency communication...The views of [prominent academicians and 'futurists'] in particular, caused us to re-examine our opinions and interpretations in a more objective way, and to question the extent to which the Intelligence Community, because it is a virtually closed society, could become subject to stereotype and narcissism in its intellectual processes... Recommendations: Continue the Senior Seminar...."

25X1

[redacted] (now) Special Assistant to Community Comptroller and Executive Secretary, IRAC

"During the past nine and a half weeks of my participation in the Senior Seminar I learned more about the range of Agency activities and problems than I have in the past decade. I feel this broader understanding has equipped each of the Seminar members to contribute more intelligently to the re-adjustment that the Agency and the Intelligence Community is being required to make. My experience leads me to strongly recommend continuation of the Seminar...I entered the Seminar with a degree of skepticism and a basic question as to whether OTR had not gone overboard in developing this extensive course...That skepticism has been completely dissipated."

Extracts from Senior Seminar One Final Critiques

Comments on Meeting Seminar Objective 1: To develop greater insight into problems and pressures facing CIA management, the processes of change within the Agency and in its external relationships, and developments in American society which are relevant to CIA as an organization.

"This is the only opportunity I have had to focus on this subject and the course certainly succeeded in illuminating the issues as well as indicating future trends." 25X1

[Redacted]
[Redacted] SB 25X1

"This objective was met to a degree far exceeding my expectations. Great credit goes to the speakers from CIA senior management, nearly all of whom were direct and candid...The Seminar participants also were a very positive factor in the success of meeting this objective, with the atmosphere generated by the Seminar format contributing to free and easy exchange." 25X1

[Redacted] Chief, Soviet and East European Forces Division, OSR

"The Seminar went well beyond the objective as stated, contributing greatly to my understanding of the Agency's structure and functions, and offering some exposure to the highest officials." 25X1

[Redacted] (now) Chief, Free
World Division, OER

"Having served in only one component of the Agency, I was indeed wanting in overall appreciation of CIA activities, problems, etc. The Seminar has helped correct this deficiency very considerably." 25X1

[Redacted] CA

"For years I had seen the tip of the iceberg on a number of these problems, but this course for the first time identified them in the context of the present and of the attitudes of the individuals who must react to them. It seemed impressive to me that while there were no particular surprises to the group as a whole, every individual clearly failed to see how limited his view of the whole picture was prior to the Seminar." 25X1

Chief, Defensive Systems Division, OSI

"I have a much better grasp now of such matters, and it is important in my present and probable future assignments. I know of no other way I could have obtained my present 'feel' for public, congressional and other government agencies--factors that influence our programs and operations." 25X1

[redacted] Chief, Printing Services
Division, OL

Comments on Meeting Seminar Objective 2: To acquaint the participants with current thinking on U.S. foreign policy equities and developments abroad which are the subjects of CIA's business.

25X1

"This element was particularly well developed by the Seminar."

[redacted] AF

"The Seminar provided an insight into the mechanism which formulates policy...The 'Academic' view of policy was very interesting, particularly the talks by Brzezinski, Fairbank, et al." 25X1

[redacted] Project Director; OSP

"The professors and State Department officials who addressed this problem helped all of us in the Seminar to understand major U.S. foreign policy problems." 25X1

[redacted]

"My simplistic world has been overturned by the variety and complexity of the factors involved in foreign policy and its relationships to the Agency." 25X1

[redacted] OSI

"The Seminar was successful in this objective too...In sum, it was possible to derive a comprehensive picture of the issues and developments confronting the U.S. generally and CIA in particular."

[redacted] OSR

25X1

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

"We found from many of the speakers that it is most difficult in many areas in which the intelligence community is concerned to define 'U.S. Foreign Policy' in terms that can be related to CIA's business. I was impressed that the Agency is as close and as responsive as it is to foreign policy developments."

[redacted] Chief, Communications
Security Staff, OS

25X1

Comments on Meeting Seminar Objective 3: To provide an opportunity for senior officers to renew their sense of personal motivation and appetite for achievement and to renew and broaden their understanding and appreciation of "the other guy."

"I leave [the Seminar] more convinced than ever that self-renewal is sufficient justification for the time and effort that went into the course."

[redacted] OCI

25X1

"I certainly have a better understanding of the DDS&T and trust that the DDP's less of a mystery to my fellow 'Seminarists'."

[redacted] AF

25X1

"In my opinion [the Seminar] provided us with a look at the Agency, through each other's eyes, which could not have been provided in any other way. The group discussion provided some of the most lasting impressions and has given me a much deeper sense of 'belonging'."

[redacted] IAS

25X1

"...The factors of broadening understanding and appreciation of 'the other guy' were particularly valuable."

"The second part (to broaden understanding of the other guy) was met very well indeed."

Brandwein/FMSAC

"The opportunity to get acquainted with a broad cross-section of Agency people and hear from many others outside the Agency was extremely valuable. Getting away from the office for ten weeks was a definite benefit in itself."

25X1

[redacted] OER

"This may have been the most valuable part of the Seminar."

25X1

[redacted] NPIC (DDS)

"My understanding and appreciation of problems of others in the Agency most certainly has been enhanced and contacts made during the course will, I feel, benefit the Agency by our combined improved effectiveness."

Comments on Benefits Derived from the Seminar: On balance, do you believe that attendance in the Seminar has benefitted you significantly in your present job or in other Agency positions to which you may aspire?

"Unquestionably yes. Feel far better equipped to contribute to the decision-making process."

[redacted] COMIREX Staff

"A resounding 'yes'!! There is no doubt that I will be better able to do my job and contribute more positively to the organization management and overall mission. My congratulations to the staff for putting together an excellent Seminar."

[redacted] OSR

"Yes--one of the most serious handicaps to doing a job in this Agency is a lack of understanding of what is going on around that job. I believe the Seminar goes a long way in relieving this information and understanding gap."

25X1

[redacted] Detailed to OSR

"This course has definitely benefited me. I'm sure that I will be a better CIA citizen and will be much more effective in dealing with other components of the Agency and will be in a much better position to enthuse those personnel assigned to me."

Extracts from Senior Seminar Two Final Critiques

Comments on Meeting Seminar Objective 1: To enable Seminar participants to develop greater insight into problems and pressures facing CIA management, the processes of change within the Agency and in its external relationships, and developments in American society which are relevant to CIA as an organization.

"This objective was achieved in a broad sense. I was especially pleased and impressed with the majority of the outside--non-government speakers. This was an opportunity I could not have found elsewhere." 25X1

[redacted] Deputy Director of Medical Services

"My feeling is that from the very first moment of the Seminar of meeting others of a diverse experience that the course did--in every sense of the word--meet this objective. It was a rare opportunity to be exposed, not only to the participants, but also the speakers inside and outside of the Agency." 25X1

[redacted] Assistant Deputy Director of Security for Investigation and Operational Support, OS

"I believe that this objective was met very well. I have a much better appreciation than before the exposure provided by the Seminar." 25X1

[redacted] Chief, Programs Analysis
Division, OSR

"This objective was met exceedingly well, particularly in the areas of problems and pressures facing the Agency and developments in American society which are relevant to the Agency as an organization. In addition, I obtained a better understanding of the Agency management and its functions." 25X1

"This objective was achieved very effectively. The Agency's recognition of such factors and the efforts being taken to solve them--or anticipate them--were discussed thoroughly and constructively. Much of this area was new to me, and the attitudes expressed were imaginative and realistic. This part of the Seminar provided me with some new management perspectives."

[redacted] Deputy Chief,
Physical Science and Engineering 25X1
Division, DDS&T

"I believe that I had some awareness when I came into the Seminar of these problems, pressures, changes and developments... But, more importantly, the Seminar sharpened and enlarged my appreciation and understanding of them. I now have a much better base for valid insight into them. Direct credit for this 'enabling' capability must go to the Seminar. The Seminar has impacted on me intellectually and fulfilled this objective." 25X1

[redacted] CIA Member of COMIREX and Chief of Reconnaissance Group, IRS

"Without question I gained greater insight into problems facing CIA management and a broader understanding of the world we live in. This was achieved through a balance of excellent speakers from inside and outside the Agency enhanced by discussions with individual members of the Seminar. After a career of over 20 years in the Agency I had a general awareness of most of CIA's activities but the Seminar provided detail and insight heretofore not obtained. I feel 'wiser.'"

25X1

[redacted] Special Assistant to the Director of NPIC

"This objective was very successfully and fully met. Personally I developed an awareness of the changes underway that will influence my actions for some time to come. It also resulted in a commitment on my part to keep abreast of factors outside the Agency."

[redacted] Chief, International

"This was very well done. The input by the Seminar members was perhaps of greater value in some cases than that of the speakers. This fact points up the importance of recruiting Seminar members--care must be taken, not only to have representation from all directorates, or at least to find members with recent experience in key components not otherwise represented."

25X1

[redacted] Assistant
General Counsel

"In my view, the Senior Seminar accomplished this objective. The Agency, it seems to me, could perhaps accelerate change for the better by a more enlightened grasp of the popular views that generate change in contemporary society."

25X1

[redacted] Branch Chief, WH

"Objective fully accomplished!! From the opening night when Ex. Dir. gave his thoughts on several of the major problems and issues facing the Agency to the final week, we carefully and fully explored dozens of major issues raised by Mr. Colby as well as other senior Agency officials. In addition we developed many issues from within the class which provided stimulating material for penetrating discussions."

25X1

[redacted] Chief, Support
Services Staff

"This objective was met to a significant extent. In a measure, this resulted from exposure to people and organization exemplifying the problems with the Agency and its relationships. To a greater extent it resulted from exposure to a wide spectrum of people and organizations who were aware of the problems and attempting to develop either solutions or methods of finding solutions."

25X1

[redacted] Defensive Systems
Division, OSI

"This first objective is the one which I feel was--and is-- the most important one to me personally, never having been exposed to any formal 'management training' per se. I believe that the Seminar met this objective more than satisfactorily, and I leave the Seminar more acutely aware of present and future Agency-governmental-societal problems from a managerial viewpoint than I was when I entered it."

Comments on Meeting Seminar Objective 2: To acquaint Seminar participants with current thinking on U.S. foreign policy equities and developments abroad which are the intelligence collection, analysis and covert action targets of CIA.

"Inasmuch as my position does not expose me normally to such official current thinking, it was extremely beneficial for me to obtain views of these activities. I feel it broadened my understanding of some of the Agency's problems better."

[redacted] OS

"While the Seminar broadened my acquaintance with current thinking and trends of direction of U.S. foreign policy equities and developments abroad, it left me somewhat frustrated in these areas. But I view this as a positive accomplishment of the Seminar objective in this area because I perceive U.S. foreign policy and developments in the world as being at the cross-roads, in a state of flux, in the beginnings of major change, at the start of a new era, the principal courses yet unset. If this is a 'turning point' in fact, then the Seminar has given me a fresh and quite full background for sensing the emergence of basic changes in U.S. foreign policy and international developments which I anticipate will evidence themselves in the next few years."

"This is difficult to answer. Tangible benefits are certainly impossible to pinpoint but nine weeks of mind-stretching such as afforded me by the Seminar cannot but help to improve one. Likewise, the opportunity for working closely with representatives from other parts of the Agency may very well pay off downstream."

"I believe that considerable benefit has been obtained, in my present job, in that some awareness of other Agency activities, information concerning projects involving other Agencies, and personal contacts were acquired."

"Yes--I deal with all parts of the Agency or on matters that affect all parts and this has given me insights on problems and positions I could not gain any other way. Knowing the members with key jobs in other components will I think add immeasurably to the quality and efficiency of my work in some areas."

"It was of particular benefit to me in my current responsibilities for managing certain Agency-wide programs (Regulations publication, Records, Archives, Microfilm) which impact on every component in the Agency. It afforded me an excellent opportunity to do a 'selling' job to the 17 senior officers that will be able to do something about these programs when they return to their respective offices. I think they all have a better appreciation of what these programs are all about and new respect for the complexities and importance of these programs. In a more general sense, I believe this course should be mandatory for senior 'staff' officers in all Directorates."

"I sincerely believe attendance at the Seminar will benefit me in my current job and any other I might have in the future. It has been both an up-dating and re-focussing in addition to which it has set into motion a personal intellectual revision of some of my current professional concepts."

Comments on Value of the Seminar to the Agency: Do you believe the investment by the Agency of two months of your time in the Senior Seminar has been profitable or unprofitable from the Agency's point of view? Explain your views.

"I can't honestly answer this question. I had doubts--serious ones--about the Seminar and wondered if 9 weeks in my 'own area' would not be more productive. I think I have had a profitable experience and would therefore recommend continuation of the Seminar. In about 4 years I will be ready for another similar Seminar."

"If persons approved for attendance at the Senior Seminar are indeed to move into senior management positions in the Agency, then I feel that he should have a broad base of knowledge of the internal and external considerations with which he has to cope as a manager at the executive level. In this context then, I feel that 2 months is not excessive to prepare one in this manner. Therefore, I feel it was a profitable experience."

"The Agency cannot help but benefit from exposure of senior officers to problems and issues that face the Government and Agency. This is a serious group and its members are sincerely interested in the Agency and its future. They will be better qualified officers upon return to their components. The value of cross-fertilization cannot be overemphasized."

"Without question, a profitable course that should be available to others. Apart from the excellent contacts one gains, the improved understanding of the Agency, the community, and the consumers should be a part of any senior officer's background."

"Subjectively, I believe that the Agency will gain more out of me over the long haul than what it has cost in my salary, the cost of the Seminar (pro-rated/capita), and in my non-productivity during the period. I feel re-charged intellectually. I am better informed factually. I am better prepared to perceive, even understand, change as it evolves and, especially some needs for change and adjustment in the CIA and in the Community."

"The Seminar has been a good investment for the Agency in my opinion. In a relative short period of time (as compared to the War Colleges and other senior schools) it has given a group of senior officers a broad base of understanding on a number of issues. Most of the participants in this Seminar had vertically structured careers with limited experience outside their parent offices or Directorates. The free give-and-take discussions on the issues and the opportunity to query in any depth desired question of interest is an experience that could not be duplicated in any course that I know of which is available to senior Agency employees."

"I definitely expect it to be highly profitable both for myself and for the Agency. In practical terms of 'early payoff' I expect considerable more receptivity and ACTION on new ways of managing our paperwork problems in the components represented in this class. I definitely obtained a new measure of respect for the problems of the 'other guy' and for their expertise in dealing with their problems. I am equally convinced that they have gained similar respect for myself. This mutual respect and the fact that one gets to know his fellow students VERY WELL in the nine weeks we have spent together cannot help but increase our ability and willingness to work together more effectively on Agency-wide problems as we continue our careers in the senior management positions in our respective Directorates."

"Very profitable. The last two months were certainly a hardship for those who took on my responsibilities, but not an unbearable one. The understanding, appreciation, and respect for the participants coming from other components of the Agency, which were developed during this Seminar, were easily worth the time spent."

"I obviously believe the time spent has been profitable from the Agency's view. I would like to think, not only because of what it does in terms of my future performance, but also in terms of the contribution each of us made to the other."

"Profitable on basis of 9 weeks. Certainly less costly than 9 months FSI or other senior training courses such as War College, etc."
