

Introduction

will be brief discussion of central reference concept and a general description of what is to follow (arrangement of ~~the history~~ this volume of the OCR history).

I. OCD in 1954

a brief description of the missions, services, resources & systems of each of the OCD components (7 divisions; 2 staffs). ~~approximately~~ probably no more than 1-3 pages on each.

II. Consolidation: 1954-57

discussion of organizational changes and reasons therefor; systems improvements; ~~and~~ increase in services (customer support)

III. Transition: 1957-58

discussion of Library Consultants Report and its aftermath; organizational and management changes; new functions & services; systems development--first interest in computers; increased activity within the intelligence community

IV. Stability: 1959-60

programs & services; systems development; USIB activities

V. Development of the All-Source Concept: 1960-65

organizational changes; programs & services; transition from EAM to EDP (beginning of Project CHIVE)

Introduction--The Central Reference Concept

OCD ~~in 1957~~

~~at the end of 1953~~ as of 1954

Consolidation 1954-57--End of Andrews Era

Organizational Changes

New Functions

Increased Service

Broader Scope--IAC Activities

Transition 1957-58--Beginning of Borel Years

Library Consultants Report and Aftermath

Organizational and Management Changes

New Functions and Services

Systems Development--Computerization on the Horizon

IAC Activities

Stabilization ^{by} 1959-60

Programs and Services

Systems Development

USIB Activities

Development of ~~Toward the~~ All-Source Concept--1960-65

~~1961~~ Years of Changes--1961 and 1963

Automatic Data Processing--~~Beginning of~~ Project CHIVE

Programs and Services