CUBA-ANGOLA: Student Riot

The 2,000 Angolan students in Cuba reportedly are being sent home following a violent uprising last month at their training site on the Isle of Youth. Five people, including Cubans and Angolans, were killed in the riot, which protested study conditions and manual labor requirements. [Redacted]

[Redacted] The incident, which is the most serious of many problems involving foreign students on the island, may add to the tensions felt by the Angolan populace over the Cuban presence in Angola. President Castro's quick agreement to send the students home reflects his exasperation with what once had been a source of pride. It also underscores mounting frustrations after almost eight years of Cuban assistance to Angola. [Redacted]
