MINUTES

Mr. McFarlane noted that the proposed study of Comprehensive U.S. Energy Security Policy was not being undertaken with the intention to change U.S. policy. Rather, it was intended to reinforce that policy and resolve any differences or fill any gaps that may exist between existing policy and overall national security interests. The objective is to ensure that we think through our policy carefully so as to enable us to continue to depend upon market forces for our basic energy security. The study was derived from the President's wish to define comprehensive policies which offer overall guidance to the President and to the Administration in the pursuit of our various foreign policy activities. ✓

There was also no intention to duplicate or to overlook the interagency groups that already exist in the energy field that have been working on various parts of our energy policy over the past 15 months. Instead we would build on existing work and existing groups and use this exercise to integrate, coordinate and reinforce these efforts more fully.

The study outline and work program/schedule for the study were distributed. The agencies were asked to comment by Wednesday, May 5. The agencies were also asked to supply names of individuals that would chair the working groups indicated on the work program/schedule. The Overview Group will meet again on May 7, at 11:00 a.m., in the Situation Room. It will be chaired by CIA and will discuss the outlines for Part I and Part II, A and D, of the study which are being developed by the CIA Working Group.

It was emphasized that the entire study was being handled under the classification of Top Secret and that any documents related to the overall study should be handled as such. Some parts of the study could be handled as Secret materials until such time as they were folded into the larger study.
