Dear Mr. Langfeld:

Pursuant to your discussion with [redacted] my Office and his meeting with you and other representatives of the General Services Administration (GSA) on 14 July 1983, I wish to make it a matter of record that both GSA and the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) agree that it is not in the national interest for this Agency to continue to report data on real property holdings. It should also be understood that this does not mean that this Agency will not comply with Executive Directives and other regulatory requirements related to space and real property. If there are occasions when it becomes necessary for GSA to have specific information, it can only be provided on a classified basis to cleared individuals and when GSA can assure its continued protection of the material.

As we discussed, it is now important to take action to remove references to CIA properties from any of your unclassified files and records. This Office is prepared to help you with this task.

I very much appreciate your understanding and cooperation in this matter.

Sincerely,

/s/ Daniel C. King
