[redacted] The DDA has prepared a background note to this effect. A copy of NSDD-97 is included.

- NSSD-13, National Space Strategy. Judge Clark's memo of 20 June acknowledges receipt of inputs to the study on space strategy. In addition to its call for continued support in this study which would lead to a Presidential decision in early September, the memo indicates the Judge finds the notion of a unified space command attractive. You may find this an appropriate time to restate your concern to keep the NRO/NRP intact. This could, I believe, be done even with the creation of a unified space command. The intelligence community has, however, large stakes involved in the present structure and operating style; let's not change a good thing without guarantees that it would be better. The IC Staff has prepared talking points.

2. The following topics are not on the formal agenda but you may wish to raise them with the Judge:

- Counterintelligence. You (DCI) may wish to recount the developments at the counterintelligence conference [redacted] last week. [redacted]

- FOIA. You (DDCI) may wish to tell of your FOIA testimony and its basic thrust: protection of sources and methods. As you know, some NSC'ers have expressed concern that an FOIA bill provide relief for the community and not just CIA. Ken DeGraffenreid in particular took some relief that your statement to the SSCI noted the possibility of other agencies weighing in.
- NSPG on the Middle East.
- LSG on Central America. This group will meet at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow. You may have some issues to follow-up with the Judge.

Topic for DCI/DDCI Meeting with Judge Clark

1. National Security Decision Directive-97 (NSDD-97), National Security Telecommunications Policy, was approved and signed by the President on 13 June. NSDD-97 not only replaces Presidential Directive 53, but it also deals with the totality of telecommunications as it affects national security.

2. In April we submitted a number of modifications to the NSDD-97 draft. Some of the modifications were incorporated in the final document. However, the most critical recommendation submitted is not contained in the final document--in view of the pervasive effect which NSDD-97 has on the Intelligence Community in general [redacted]

[redacted] we urged that the DCI be permitted to designate a representative to serve on the NSDD-97 Steering Group. The NSDD-97 Steering Group currently consists of the Director, Office of Science and Technology Policy, the Executive Agent of the National Communications System, the Associate Director of OMB for National Security and International Affairs, and it is chaired by the Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs or his representative.

3. Because of the significance of NSDD-97 as it concerns the Intelligence Community, [redacted] we again request that the DCI/DDCI urge that Judge Clark permit them to appoint a representative to the NSDD-97 Steering Group.
