NFAC #5423/79

15 October 1979

MEMORANDUM FOR: Director, National Foreign Assessment Center
FROM : Coordinator for Academic Relations, NFAC
SUBJECT : Annual Report

1. The Agency's dialogue with specialists from universities and private research centers has broadened and intensified during the past year. Even at universities where restrictive guidelines governing relationships between faculty and staff and the Intelligence Community have been adopted, there seems to be a greater willingness by faculty and students to distinguish between the myths and allegations of past CIA abuses and current realities of our work. Improvements have resulted from changing attitudes on campus, a constricted job market for scholars, and other external factors, as well as from the expansion and vigorous presentation of our academic relations program.

2. During the past few years the role of the Academic Relations Staff has expanded from its earlier role of coordinating NFAC (formerly DDI) relations with academia, to a more positive effort to foster and encourage constructive ties with the academic community, meanwhile advising and assisting the DCI on academic affairs as well as providing other Agency-wide services. This expansion of missions and functions has been achieved with a staff of two full-time, middle management officers.

3. Major Endeavors and Accomplishments:

a. Services to the Director of Central Intelligence on Academic Relations:

(1) CAR handles much of the DCI's correspondence with academics, either by preparing coordinated replies for his signature or by answering on his behalf. There are not many such letters but some of them are very time-consuming.

(2) CAR has organized a series of university presidents visits to the Agency as part of its endeavor to facilitate a free-flowing exchange of ideas on how to maintain the academic-intelligence relationship on a sound and proper basis. A total of 18 university presidents have attended the four meetings held thus far.

(3) CAR advises the DCI on the "guidelines" (on relations with the intelligence agencies) adopted by Harvard and a few other academic institutions and, as such, is a member of an ad hoc working group consisting of the General Counsel, Inspector General, and Deputy Director for Operations.

(4) CAR is responsible for initiating and managing a series of discussion dinners in which academics and officials from other government agencies are invited. These are held at approximately six-week intervals. Eleven such seminars have been held with topics ranging from Central America after Somoza and North-South Relations to Soviet Nationality Prospects and Conventional Arms Transfer Problems.

b. Miscellaneous All-Agency Functions:

STATINTL

(1) CAR is the Agency coordinator of reporting on foreign affairs external research (FAR) under [redacted]. He represents the Agency on the Interagency Committee on FAR reporting and serves as liaison between CIA components and State on FAR matters. As part of this responsibility, CAR has chaired an all-Agency working group to revise [redacted]. The revised regulation has been submitted to the Regulations Control Branch, DDA and is expected to be issued before the end of 1979.

STATINTL

(2) CAR advises and represents the Agency on a variety of subjects having to do with academia. Most of these fall under one of the following headings:

(a) CIA relations with academic institutions or individual scholars. CAR receives many inquiries directly from the academic community, whose members prefer not to deal with Public Affairs. CAR is also consulted by the Office of the General Counsel and by DO and DS&T divisions (especially DO/DCD, DO/FRD and DS&T/ORD) on academic relations. Advice on Freedom of Information questions is a fairly frequent example.

(b) Recruitment and External Research. Because of contacts in the academic community, CAR occasionally receives inquiries regarding employment by the Agency and proposals for external research projects. CAR function in these cases is to put these inquiries into proper channels but also to see that they are handled in such a way as to foster good relations with academia.

(c) Public Affairs. CAR represents NFAC on the Public Affairs Advisory Group (PAAG). CAR and PA activities overlap to a degree and informal communications and coordination channels of our activities are well established.

c. NFAC Functions:

(1) CAR advises and assists the NIOs in the selection of consultants and coordinates the recruitment and payment procedures. CAR has also assumed responsibility for the "generalist" consultants nominated by the DCI, who have no NIO sponsor. There are now 31 NIO consultants, including five generalists. Seven additional consultants are in process.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Director, National Foreign Assessment Center
FROM : Associate Coordinator for Academic Relations, NFAC
SUBJECT : Academic Relations Biannual Report

1. Attached for your information is the biannual report for NFAC academic relations covering the first half of 1979. Information is compiled in a format that has been used for several years and which has proven useful for comparing trends in these activities.

2. The data is reasonably complete. It was compiled from records in the Academic Coordinator's files and was reviewed by the Office Directors and the NIOs and provides a reliable gauge of the scope of relations between NFAC and academia.

SUBJECT: Annual Report

(2) CAR, in an attempt to maximize the benefits to be derived from academic visits to the Agency, has arranged seminars and other information exchanges between academic participants in DCI discussion/dinners and analysts working in the same fields.

(3) CAR arranges meetings with individual scholars who are visiting or passing through Washington. These meetings may take the form of informal debriefings, lectures, or seminars. In the past year, approximately a dozen such scholars have visited the Agency to consult with NFAC analysts (this is in addition to academic participants in DCI discussion/dinners).

(4) CAR arranges Agency visits for university student/faculty groups. Twenty such groups were hosted by NFAC during the first nine months of 1979. Most were briefed by a senior official and also had a substantive briefing by NFAC analysts. CAR assesses each proposed visit and then arranges for (and may participate in) the briefings requested by the visitors.

(5) CAR screens invitations from the academic community to supply speakers on NFAC subjects and seeks analyst volunteers for those chosen for favorable response. In the next few months, NFAC analysts will be visiting the University of Denver, University of Minnesota, Saint John's University (Minnesota) and Morehead University (Kentucky).

(6) During the past year CAR has initiated three scholar-in-residence employments. One was arranged but then cancelled by the scholar concerned (Robert Jervis). One is scheduled for 1980-1981 (John Gaddis for OPA). The third is in process for 1980-1981 (Professor Richard Ned Lebow of the National War College for OSR).

SUBJECT: Annual Report

(7) CAR regularly distributes unclassified Agency publications to about 200 scholars at universities around the country. During the first nine months of 1979, 51 unclassified Agency publications on Chinese, Soviet and Latin American subjects were mailed to a total of over 150 experts in those fields. In addition, 40-50 scholars, most of whom are directors of university international studies programs or of private research centers, receive copies of other Agency publications. The requests of approximately 70 more scholars for copies of Agency publications or information also were filled by CAR.

(8) CAR circulates a monthly listing of academic meetings in which NFAC analysts might be interested. CAR also reviews analyst attendance at academic meetings, participation at academic meetings, publications in academic journals and visits to academic institutions. Perhaps the clearest indication of the progress that has been made recently in improving the Agency's ties with academia is in the growing participation of our specialists at academic and professional conferences. In the first nine months of 1979, approximately 350 NFAC people attended 145 conferences, conventions and symposia in their areas of interest. These gatherings included national and regional conventions of the major academic associations in about a dozen disciplines, conferences of the principal area studies associations, conferences of professional associations, conferences devoted to the affairs of a single country or topic, and symposia, colloquia, and fora. More and more of our analysts are being asked to make presentations at these affairs. So far this year, 26 analysts have presented scholarly papers at their meetings.

(9) CAR has encouraged independent critical articles on CIA publications in professional journals. One appeared in the Spring 1979 issue of Contemporary China. The Commerce Department is doing one that will appear later this month in their publication Business America, and the AAASS has agreed to publish one later this year.

4. Major Organizational Developments:

a. Staffing:

(1) CAR is staffed by two full-time officers and two secretaries.

STATINTL

(2) The Coordinator of Academic Relations is Mr. [REDACTED], who joined the Agency in July, 1977 after experience with The Johns Hopkins University Washington Center of Foreign Policy Research, the Institute for Defense Analyses, and the Naval War College that qualified him for the assignment.

(3) The Associate Coordinator is a two-year rotational tour. The present Associate Coordinator, [REDACTED], was assigned in August, 1978.

STATINTL

b. CAR Attendance at Professional Meetings: CAR personnel try to attend the appropriate professional meetings each year as there is no better way to keep in touch with trends in academia or to maintain old contacts and make new ones. The following meetings were attended during the academic year 1978-1979:

American Political Science Association Annual Meeting, New York City, in August-September

International Studies Association Section on Military Studies Annual Meeting, Kiawah Island, South Carolina, in October

American Historical Association, San Francisco, December

International Studies Association Annual Meeting, Toronto, in March

5. Future Plans:

a. CAR intends to continue to pursue the activities listed in paragraph 3.

b. CAR is exploring the feasibility of inviting the deans of the foreign service-oriented schools, the directors of the international affairs research centers and possibly the chairmen of departments of interest to NFAC for a day of briefings and discussions on substantive (analytic) and personnel (consultants, lateral entry recruits, scholars-in-residence) problems -- all from the Washington area. This "day with NFAC" would be an alternative to the university presidents visits. The project has the attraction that our guests would be specialists on NFAC subjects themselves and much closer than the presidents to prospective consultants, scholars-in-residence, and regular employees.

c. CAR is attempting to coordinate NFAC activities, particularly visits to universities and academic meetings, speaking to student groups, and discussions with university faculties, with personnel in the Office of Personnel, Recruitment and Placement Divisions in an attempt to share our contacts and entree with academics and academic institutions. Initial discussions have been held with [redacted], Chief, Recruitment Division, Office of Personnel.

STATINTL

d. CAR will be attempting to coordinate public relations activities more closely with others with similar or overlapping roles, i.e., Office of Public Affairs and EEO. CAR is attending a Public Communications meeting at [redacted] on 27-28 November on this subject.
