STAT

Thank you so much for participating in the briefing that you so ably organized for the International Fellows of Columbia University. The Fellows particularly appreciated your insights into the workings of the Central Intelligence Agency as well as the wry humor with which your remarks were underscored.

[Redacted]

joins me in thanking you again for your kind consideration.

Dear [Redacted]

I apologize for the delay in getting the social security numbers of this year's International Fellows to you. The list that my colleague [Redacted] sent to you yesterday is the entire group; it is inevitable, however, that some will not be able to make the trip; I can give you the final list on the phone by Wednesday the 13th if you need it. Of course, the one foreign national in the group, [Redacted] will not attend the briefing.

I have enclosed the social security numbers of myself, [Redacted] and [Redacted] which were inadvertently left off the other list.

We are very much looking forward to this year's briefing. Thanks so much for all your help.

Sincerely,

[Redacted Signature]

Dear [Redacted]

As I mentioned to you on the phone this morning, the International Fellows of Columbia University are making their semi-annual trip to Washington, D.C. on Thursday, October 21st and we would greatly appreciate if if you could arrange a briefing for us from 2:00 to 4:30 p.m. in the auditorium. Last year, the Fellows very much enjoyed our briefing by Mr. Hans Heymann, National Intelligence Officer, and the panel discussion on China with [Redacted] and others from the Office of East Asian Analysis.

Changed to 22 Oct

As you may recall, the International Fellows are fifty of Columbia's most outstanding graduate students, selected for their achievements and leadership potential. They represent such academic and professional fields as political science, history, business, law, and journalism, and participate in a unique interdisciplinary course in international politics and foreign policy. Twice each year they are privileged with visits to Washington for a series of briefings with officials of public and private institutions concerned with international affairs. Enclosed is a current bulletin describing in further detail the Fellows and their activities. Please feel free to write or call if you have any questions.

It is our hope that your analysts will find another discussion with the Fellows stimulating and enjoyable. They would certainly consider it a valuable and rewarding experience.

Very truly yours,

[Redacted Signature]
