I COURSE DESCRIPTION

Can there be a stable global economy if foreign trade is restricted by protectionist policies such as quotas and high tariffs? American Foreign Policy: On Location will utilize governmental and non-governmental organizations to examine the growing demand for protectionism as an aspect of the larger question of international trade policy of the United States.

The first week will consist of on-campus classes dealing with the formulation of U.S. foreign policy, in general, and case-study foreign economic and trade policies in particular.

The second week will be the key component, consisting of a series of briefings and discussions in Washington with key staff members at the White House, State Department, Commerce Department, and Central Intelligence Agency; congressional leaders; representatives of the Common Market nations, Japan and the People's Republic of China; and the United States Chamber of Commerce and the Council for a Competitive Economy.

During the third week, evaluation will take place. The students will write and present individual and group papers and take an examination.

II BEHAVIORAL OBJECTIVES

A. General: Upon completion of the course, the students will understand the major constitutional, statutory, customary and personal functions and roles of the following in foreign policy making

- The President of the United States
- The National Security Council (NSC)
- The Department of State (DOS)
- The Department of Commerce (DOC)
- The Central Intelligence Agency (CIA)
- The United States Senate
- The United States House of Representatives and be aware of relationships within and among these groups.

B. Specific: In addition, the students will

- examine the nature and function of nongovernmental organizations (NGO) such as the US Chamber of Commerce and the Council for a Competitive Economy and the role they play in influencing foreign policy making
- compare styles of bureaucratic decision-making; crisis-decision-making and rational actor models and know the characteristics and strengths and weaknesses of both.
- know influence and coercive techniques of economic foreign policy, the rationale behind them and strengths and weaknesses of both.
- read and know the major terms of trade legislation, current and proposed and know the positions of their congressional representatives on this legislation.
- examine the trade relationships and status between the US and the European Economic Community (EEC), Japan, and the People's Republic of China

- become familiar with White House views on trade policy
- examine specific policy recommendations from the Departments of State and Commerce
- know the role of the CIA in making assessments and recommendations regarding economic foreign policy
- examine the impact of domestic economic conditions on the foreign trade policy of the US.

SUMMER, 1982

GENERAL INFORMATION SHEET

We will travel by College van and from Washington. Because of space limitations, and the tendency to bring back more than we went down with, please limit yourself to two pieces of baggage - one suitcase and a small carry-on suitbag.

Clothing is generally casual - please no shorts or cut-offs for the daily sessions. It will be about 75-85° and fairly humid - 80-90% during the day and we may get some rain (bring an umbrella). Evenings will be cooler 60-70°, but will remain humid. If you plan on going out at night, many restaurants require jackets/ties for men, dresses/pant suits for women, and will not allow jeans. There are many less expensive, more casual places, ranging from MacDonal-d-type to delis, and numerous ethnic restaurants, all within walking distance.

Washington has a broad range of night life. There are numerous stage shows, movies, bars, discos, etc.; something for everyone. Museums, historical sites and art galleries abound - most are free and within walking distance. You are free after the daily seminar, and we suggest a buddy-system when you go out. There are high crime areas in the city.

We will be staying at the Hotel Harrington at 11th, 12th and 'E' Streets, NW, just north of Pennsylvania Avenue. Triple rooms are $14.00 and doubles $20.00 per person/per night, tax and baggage handling fees* will be about an additional $8-10 per person. You are responsible for any additional charges such as phone calls, etc. from you individual rooms. The phone number is (202) 628-8140.

A schedule has been arranged, due to the nature of the groups that we visit, it is imperative that we be on time. Therefore, reveille will be at 0700 hours (that's 7:00 a.m. for you civilians), to enable ample time to breakfast, assemble and get moving in the same direction. We ask that you strictly adhere to all meeting times. Many of the buildings are secure and you won't be able to get in without the rest of the group.

We expect you to be outstanding representatives of Monroe Community College. Our continuation of this course for the future is predicted on your maturity and deportment.

By all means bring your cameras, but they will not be allowed in the Congressional galleries, the CIA, and the State Department.

*10% sales tax on the room
$.80 per room/per day occupancy tax
$1.00 per person baggage handling fee

The session fit perfectly into our schedule and enabled the class to have a unique face-to-face meeting with someone directly concerned with trade policy.

In our evaluation and seminar sessions, the students were particularly impressed by United States - Peoples' Republic of China trade.

Your contribution to the success of the course is greatly appreciated.

Dear [Redacted]

STAT

As I told you in our recent telephone conversation we are offering a course entitled American Foreign Policy: On Location. It is a highly intensive, single issue political science course that will deal with the topic of United States Foreign Trade. A major component is the on location in Washington segment, featuring a chance for the student to deal with selected individuals, on a face-to-face basis, in both government and non-governmental organizations, who deal with this problem in a policy making context.

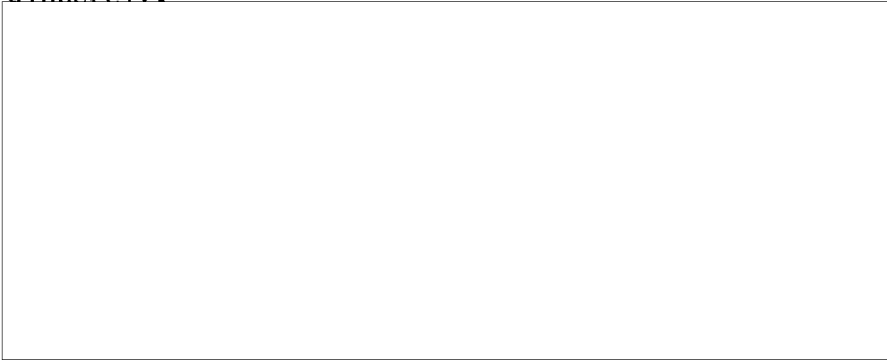

The class will consist of from 15 to 20 students and 2 faculty members and we will be in Washington from June 1 through 4 for the class sessions. The students will have had extensive background in such course areas as United States Diplomatic History, International Relations and World Politics, Foreign Policy, and American National Government. In addition, they will have had a week of classes prior to going to Washington, as well as having read from an extensive bibliography on the topic of foreign trade.

We are in the process of arranging sessions with the State Department, the United States Chamber of Commerce, Congressmen Frank Horton, Barber Conable and Frederick Richmond, and the Department of Commerce, among others. In order to facilitate the June class session, we will be in Washington and would like to meet with you on Friday, April 23rd at 10:00 in the morning in order to finalize the program for June.
