Dear [Redacted]

In response to your letter of 23 November (serial: T54-239-84) we have reviewed the collection from the proposed release to the National Archives entitled, "Army-Navy Communications Intelligence Coordinating Committee, Minutes of Meetings, 18 April 1944 - 12 December 1945." The Central Intelligence Agency has no objection to the declassification and release of those OSS/FBIS items you have highlighted.

Sincerely,

Dear [Redacted]

STAT

Enclosed please find a collection of memoranda, letters and minutes extracted from a proposed release to the National Archives to be titled, "Army-Navy Communications Intelligence Coordinating Committee, Minutes of Meetings, 18 April 1944 - 12 December 1945." Each of these items contains entries which relate to the World War II organizations for which the Central Intelligence Agency is now the declassification authority, viz., the Office of Strategic Services and the Foreign Broadcast Information Service.

The numbered pages are those which we propose to release. In some cases, they are followed in the file by the corresponding classified, unsanitized versions of the numbered pages.

This agency's declassification guidelines preclude unilateral declassification and release of any material which was originated by or relates to other government agencies. We would appreciate it, therefore, if you would review the material to determine if you concur with its release as shown. We have outlined or highlighted those items which we feel require your concurrence.

Some of these items concern other elements of the U. S. Government, or of certain foreign intelligence organizations, and must be reviewed by them also. For this reason, although the numbered pages are marked as unclassified, it is requested that, until final concurrence has been received by us, and the file is released by NSA, the original classifications be observed and protected accordingly.

The first two pages of the enclosure constitute an index, by page number, of the material; these numbers may be used as references when you reply to this request.

If you have any questions, please contact our project officer [redacted] who may be reached at 688-7553 or (secure) 972-2268. Your cooperation in this matter is greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
