Dear Dr. Augsburger:

Thank you for writing Director Casey for whom I am responding.

Enclosed is a picture of Mr. Casey. We are pleased that you chose Mr. Casey to be included in your collection, however, we are unable to send you a pair of glasses.

Your work is certainly very admirable and we wish you all the best.

Sincerely,

Office of the Director
CIA
Washington, DC 20905

Dear Mr. Casey:

In a recent national publication I saw you pictured wearing a pair of distinctive glasses. As a person well known and respected by the public, your role model in using glasses to more effectively allow you to see during your work is of great interest to me as curator of The Ohio State University Celebrity Eyewear Collection. This special collection currently includes former President Gerald R. Ford, Vice President George Bush, Senator Howard Metzenbaum, John Denver, Red Skelton, and Joan Rivers.

I invite you to be part of this collection which emphasizes the importance of good vision in the lives of successful people. In addition to bringing a positive publicity to The Ohio State University and its fine programs, which also emphasizes the significant role you have played in your successful professional endeavors. If you agree to be part of this project, please send your carefully packaged and previously worn spectacles along with a photograph of you wearing them to:

Thank you in advance for considering this proposal, and I look forward to hearing your positive response or answering any questions you may have regarding this collection.

Sincerely,

Arol Augsburger, O.D., M.S.

Secretive as befits a spy boss, the CIA director has reversed that agency's slide but angered some congressional leaders, who charge that he has kept them in the dark about sensitive covert operations.
