MEMORANDUM FOR: Executive Director, Special Study Group

SUBJECT : Responsibilities and Functions of the Inspector General of CIA

1. The responsibilities and functions of the Inspector General are described in Regulation No. 1-110, copy attached. In amplification of this regulation it should be understood that the Inspector General conducts periodic inspections of Agency components; investigates any incidents or individuals where there is evidence of malpractice or upon direction of the Director or request of appropriate senior official; and reviews cases presented by individual employees where satisfaction has not been obtained in command channels. The Inspector General is not in the chain of command and does not take action on behalf of the Director, but rather recommends action to the Director, the Deputy Directors and Assistant Directors.

2. There are 15 slots on the T/O of the Staff of the Inspector General. These include seven inspectors, one administrative officer and secretarial personnel. None of these personnel are covert. The addition of a military officer to deal with problems of military personnel is presently under consideration. Biographical sketches of the officers are attached.
