

29 November 1954

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: 29 November 1954 Briefing of the Task Force
on Intelligence Activities

25X1A

25X1A

1. The session today was a continuation of the [redacted] briefing. Colonel Lane was duly impressed with the various sections of [redacted] but was completely awe stricken with the [redacted] Register which contains over [redacted]. He was especially interested in the functioning of the Analysis Section, the Service and Correspondence Section and the Top Secret Section.

25X1A

25X1A

2. While visiting the Analysis Section, Colonel Lane was interested in finding out the time lag for material to get from the Dispatch and Pouch Section to the Analysis Section. He was completely bewildered by the fact that the material being worked on by three separate analysts all was current.

3. Colonel Lane remarked that this was one of the most interesting shops that he had visited thus far and that he fully realized the importance attached to [redacted]. He further added, "I realized that you had extensive files, but I was not aware of their enormity -- however, it's natural that the older you get, the bigger your archives will get."

25X1A

4. Near the end of the day, Colonel Lane stated, "It is important for the Agency to have good agents throughout the world, but their importance is minimized unless you have a well-organized and functioning record system."

5. At the end of the briefing, Colonel Lane commented that, after seeing this well-organized record unit, the need for a new building becomes quite apparent. He stated that we have high hopes for a new building which not only will give us added protection for our records, but which in addition would be a great morale booster.

6. As the briefings progress, Colonel Lane is showing a keener insight and pointedness with regard to intelligence -- as evidenced by his questioning. Underneath an apparently soft exterior, he is a very strong, intelligent investigator.

25X1A

010222

29 November 1954

Questions asked by Colonel Lane during 29 November Briefing

- Q. What do you mean by the term "sterilization"?
25X1A
- Q. Does your office [REDACTED] also receive communications intelligence traffic?
25X1C
- Q. How much material did you acquire as a result of the [REDACTED] Operation?
25X1C
- Q. What was your source in [REDACTED] for this material?
25X1C
- 25X1C Q. When President Eisenhower requests information on the [REDACTED] [REDACTED] will your files produce such information?
- Q. How long would it take you to get this material together to answer such a request?
25X1A
- Q. Have you made [REDACTED] surveys for all the area divisions?
- Q. What is the average GS level of your people?
25X1A
- Q. Who has control of the printing facility [REDACTED]
- Q. How long have you used your Classification System?
- 25X1C Q. What are some of the advantages in acquiring all this information on [REDACTED]?
- 25X1A Q. How long does it take to get together all information on an average [REDACTED]?
- Q. What is your personnel turnover figure?
- Q. What is your Top Secret procedure in the event of the loss of a TS document?

29 November 1954

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: 29 November 1954 Briefing of the Task Force
on Intelligence Activities

1. The session today was a continuation of the [redacted] briefing. Colonel Lane was duly impressed with the various sections of [redacted] but was completely awe stricken with the [redacted] Register [redacted]. He was especially interested in the functioning of the Analysis Section, the Service and Correspondence Section and the Top Secret Section.
2. While visiting the Analysis Section, Colonel Lane was interested in finding out the time lag for material to get from the Dispatch and Pouch Section to the Analysis Section. He was completely bewildered by the fact that the material being worked on by three separate analysts all was current.
3. Colonel Lane remarked that this was one of the most interesting shops that he had visited thus far and that he fully realized the importance attached to [redacted]. He further added, "I realized that you had extensive files, but I was not aware of their enormity -- however, it's natural that the older you get, the bigger your archives will get."
4. Near the end of the day, Colonel Lane stated, "It is important for the Agency to have good agents throughout the world, but their importance is minimized unless you have a well-organized and functioning record system."
5. At the end of the briefing, Colonel Lane commented that, after seeing this well-organized record unit, the need for a new building becomes quite apparent. He stated that we have high hopes for a new building which not only will give us added protection for our records, but which in addition would be a great morale booster.
6. As the briefings progress, Colonel Lane is showing a keener insight and pointedness with regard to intelligence -- as evidenced by his questioning. Underneath an apparently soft exterior, he is a very strong, intelligent investigator.

This document has been approved for release through the HISTORICAL REVIEW PROGRAM of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Date 5/5/92

HRP 89-2

29 November 1954

Questions asked by Colonel Lane during 29 November Briefing

- Q. What do you mean by the term "sterilization"?
- Q. Does your office [REDACTED] also receive communications intelligence traffic?
- Q. How much material did you acquire as a result of the [REDACTED] Operation?
- Q. What was your source in [REDACTED] for this material?
- Q. When President Eisenhower requests information on the [REDACTED] [REDACTED] will your files produce such information?
- Q. How long would it take you to get this material together to answer such a request?
- Q. Have you made [REDACTED] surveys for all the area divisions?
- Q. What is the average GS level of your people?
- Q. Who has control of the printing facility [REDACTED]?
- Q. How long have you used your Classification System?
- Q. What are some of the advantages in acquiring all this information on [REDACTED]?
- Q. How long does it take to get together all information on an average [REDACTED]?
- Q. What is your personnel turnover figure?
- Q. What is your Top Secret procedure in the event of the loss of a TS document?