SUBJECT Time Magazine/CIA Involvement

CHRIS WALLACE: There's a new report on how the Reagan campaign got information from the Carter White House in 1980. According to Time magazine, CIA Director William Casey, who was then the Reagan campaign manager, used former CIA and FBI agents to gather intelligence from active agents. The information was then passed on to the Reagan campaign.

Casey denied the Time report, saying, quote, "I don't think it ever happened."
