

WHAT NOW FOR THE CIA?

HBS Club Reception at CIA Headquarters-Langley, Va.
September 25, 1975
6:30PM Cocktail Buffet
7:30PM address by
William E. Colby
Director of the Central Intelligence Agency

The price of freedom is eternal vigilance-some may agree and others challenge but William E. Colby is willing to discuss the issues candidly on Thursday September 25, 1975 at CIA headquarters in Langley, Virginia. Mr. Colby will report on the recent Congressional hearings and describe the future role he envisions for the CIA. Four senior staff officers representing the four directorates will join Mr. Colby in a panel during the question and answer period.

The evening cocktail buffet combined with a briefing by the CIA Director will be the first time such an event has been conducted at the CIA Headquarters for a group as large as the HBS Club. To show our appreciation, all members and guests are asked to cooperate in observing minimal security requirements - NO CAMERAS - NO TAPE RECORDERS - NO NOTEBOOKS, PENS OR PENCILS DURING SPEAKERS REMARKS.

In order to make arrangements to get admission to restricted areas we have agreed to get our reservation list to the CIA by September 18th. There is a limit on the number of people the CIA can accommodate so get your reservations in early. No telephone reservations can be accepted for this event from sponsors, sustainers or regular members and we will not be able to accept reservations received in the HBS Club office after 5PM on September 17th.

Cost for the evening is $8.00 per person which includes a light buffet and open bar. Please fill out the enclosed reservation form completely if you wish to attend.
