Dear Mr. Casey:

Please consider this your formal invitation to join us as a participant at the "International Conference on Terrorism," September 26 - 27, 1986, in Washington, D.C. Our underwriters, the Times Mirror Company, and we here at Columbia would be honored if you would attend. Here are the details.

The proceedings will be videotaped in the Caucus Room of the Russell Senate Office Building. You know our format: We place a dozen people around a horseshoe-shaped table and engage them in a Socratic dialogue concerning hypothetical cases. The goal of our moderators, Professors Arthur Miller and Charles Nesson of Harvard Law School and Harold Evans, editorial director of U.S. News and World Report, is to get professionals of varying disciplines--law enforcement officials, policymakers, legislators, journalists--to talk to each other instead of past each other. We try to make the agony of decision-making so intense, you can escape only by thinking.

The hypothetical case studies we will explore in the Senate Caucus Room, the arena of so many important debates in our nation's history, center on several key questions. How can one nation react to the terrorism perpetrated by another nation? When individual Americans are threatened abroad, how can our government and our institutions take action? How can our law enforcement officials respond to domestic terrorism?

Among those joining you at the conference will be Morris Leibman; FBI Director William Webster; Senator Arlen Specter; Judge Abraham Sofaer, the State Department's legal adviser; ABC anchorman Peter Jennings; James Hoge, publisher of the New York Daily News; General Edward C. Meyer; the former Prime Minister of Great Britain, Sir Edward Heath; Denis Healey, Member of the British Parliament; Sir Kenneth Newman, commissioner of the New Scotland Yard; Tom Wicker of the New York Times; and many other pivotal professionals who share your deep concern about this issue.

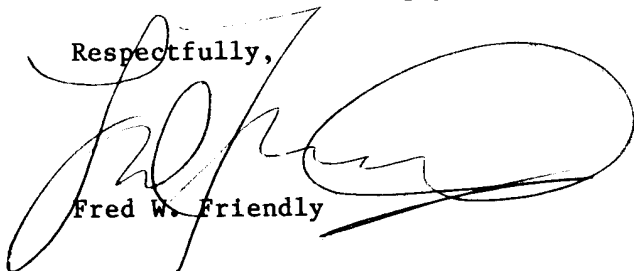

You will be hearing from us again before the conference. In the meantime, I hope you and Mrs. Casey have marked the dates on your calendars. We will, of course, cover all expenses for both of you. We would be pleased to have you stay as our guests at the Madison Hotel in Washington on Friday night, September 26. There will be a reception and dinner that evening hosted by the Times Mirror Company.

4 August 1986

Mr. Casey, as you well know, few issues concerning our national interest rival terrorism in urgency. You are eminently qualified to help us explore these questions and I want you to know how vital we consider your participation. I can promise you a stimulating and absorbing weekend. We look forward to seeing you there.

Respectfully,

Dear Mr. Casey:

I rushed to the ABA Convention at the Sheraton this afternoon to hear you speak only to discover that you'd been detained in Washington. I enjoyed listening to Mr. Allen, but I missed hearing you.

All of which gives me the opportunity to write to you to tell you again how much my colleagues and I hope you will be able to be with us for our conference on terrorism on September 27th at the Senate Caucus room.

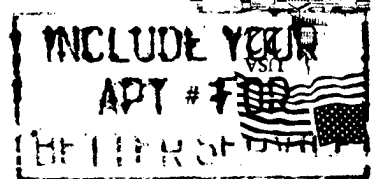

Respectfully,

Fred W. Friendly

Dear Mr. Casey:

We are looking forward to seeing you in Washington for the taping of our "International Conference on Terrorism," on Saturday, September 27, 1986.

The enclosed program contains not only the agenda for the day, but also an impressive list of conferees; we are delighted you are among them.

The four hypothetical case studies represent the starting points for each of the seminars. The moderators will, of course, add facts as that is the nature of the exercise.

The conference will be videotaped at the Senate Caucus Room of the Russell Senate Office Building for broadcast in January 1987 on PBS.

To assist us in the videotaping of the programs we request that you not bring beepers or watches with audio signals into the seminar room. We will be pleased to make arrangements so that in an emergency you will be notified.

If you have any questions, please call my colleague, Barbara Eddings, at 212/280-3666.

Dear Mr. Casey:

September 26th is rapidly approaching, and with it the "International Conference on Terrorism," underwritten by the Times Mirror Company. You'll receive your conference packet a week before the conference. In the meantime, we need your help with one administrative matter.

Because of the security requirements of the U.S. Capitol Police, we need each participant to complete the enclosed questionnaire. The Capitol Police also request that all of our guests carry some form of picture identification such as a driver's license or passport for admission to the Russell Senate Office Building. Please note that the deadline for return of the security questionnaire is September 15.

Among the many distinguished individuals who have accepted our invitation to date are FBI Director William Webster; Representative Patricia Schroeder; Senators Charles McC. Mathias, Jeremiah Denton, William Cohen and Arlen Specter; journalists Peter Jennings, Lesley Stahl, Larry Grossman, Van Gordon Sauter, Tom Wicker and Jody Powell; from Great Britain, former Prime Minister Sir Edward Heath and Denis Healey, M.P.; Israel's Representative to the United Nations Benjamin Netanyahu; General E.C. Meyer and Judge Abraham Sofaer. Yours is an important name on our list and Fred Friendly and I look forward to seeing you in Washington.

Cordially,

Dear Mr. Casey:

I'm dictating this letter from Sun Valley where I am conducting a seminar on judicial ethics for the 9th Judicial Circuit. I've received the good news through [redacted] in your office that you will be able to join us on Saturday, September 27 in Washington for our conference on terrorism.

STAT

My colleagues and I here at Columbia along with our underwriter, the Times Mirror Company, are delighted that you will participate. Your presence will add much to the conference and we'll count on using your insight throughout the day. More information on the seminars is forthcoming.

These seminars are being videotaped in association with WETA/26, Washington, D.C., for broadcast on PBS in January 1987.

This is the 199th seminar conducted by Columbia University Seminars on Media and Society since 1974.

We wish to express our appreciation to the following individuals and institutions for their cooperation and support in planning this seminar:

Hon. Charles McC. Mathias, Jr.,
Chairman of the Senate Rules
and Administration Committee,
United States Senate

Lt. Gen. Richard D. Lawrence and the National Defense
University

U.S. Capitol Police.

The Public Broadcasting Service has made considerable contributions to the television production of these seminars.

Discussion Leaders

Arthur R. Miller

is the Bruce Bromley Professor of Law at the Harvard Law School, his alma mater, where he specializes in civil procedure, copyright law, and the law of privacy. His books, articles, and frequent radio and television discussions on privacy have marked him as an authority on the subject. He has written texts on civil procedure and conducts seminars for judges under the auspices of the Federal Judicial Center. Professor Miller has served the United States Supreme Court as its Reporter on Civil Rules and is currently working with the American Law Institute on a project on Complex Litigation. He is a regular contributor on legal matters to Good Morning America. He hosts a weekly television program in Boston called Miller's Court. Professor Miller has been a moderator for Columbia University Seminars on Media and Society since 1974.

Charles R. Nesson

is a professor at Harvard Law School where he teaches evidence, trial advocacy, and criminal law. After graduating from Harvard Law School in 1963, he clerked for Supreme Court Justice John Marshall Harlan and served as Special Assistant to John Doar in the Civil Rights Division of the U.S. Department of Justice before returning to his alma mater in 1966 to teach law. Professor Nesson's scholarly writings are in the field of evidence. He has also helped produce and has been the legal commentator and consultant on numerous documentaries dealing with legal issues. Professor Nesson has been a moderator for Columbia University Seminars on Media and Society since 1974.

Harold M. Evans

is vice president at Weidenfeld & Nicolson, New York publishers. His distinguished career in journalism began in 1944 in Britain where he was a political and editorial writer. He was a Harkness Fellow at the University of Chicago in 1956-1957. In 1967 he became editor of The Sunday Times, and in 1981 was appointed editor of the daily Times of London. Mr. Evans edited and published the landmark report on the thalidomide tragedy, which culminated in increased compensation for the victims of the drug. He was awarded the European Gold Medal of the Institute of Journalists and was named International Editor of the Year in 1976. He is the author of many books on journalism, among them Good Times, Bad Times. He participated in the first Media and Society Seminar conference at Chatham Bars in 1974 and in numerous others around the world in the past twelve years.

International Conference on TERRORISM

First Conference Session

"Incident in the Mediterranean: Rescue and Response"

Part I

Moderator: Arthur R. Miller

With the dollar up and airfares down, many Americans have put aside their fears of terrorism to vacation in Europe. One of this season's most popular destinations on the continent is the country of Tiberius, a democratic ally of the United States. It is a country of ancient tradition and contemporary charm which has captured much of the tourist trade.

This morning, an Air Tiberius jet leaving the capital city and bound for New York was hijacked. Flight 99 was diverted to an airport in the Middle Eastern country of Cedaron, a small nation devastated by civil war and lacking a stable government. Among the one hundred passengers on board Flight 99 are 55 Americans and 25 Tiberius nationals. The remaining passengers are from Great Britain, France, Canada, and other countries.

Upon landing in Cedaron, the hijackers sent a message indicating they are members of a heretofore unknown group called "Brothers Loyal Unto Death," or BLUD. Their purpose, the statement said, is to unite the "True Believers" of the Middle East against the "Great Oppressor" -- the United States, Israel, and their allies. Since the initial message, there has been no communication from the hijackers and no sign of action on the plane.

Second Conference Session

"Incident in the Mediterranean: Rescue and Response"

Part II

Moderator: Arthur R. Miller

With the resolution of the takeover of Air Tiberius Flight 99 two days ago, the mood in America is somber. In the days since the hijacking, foreign travel has fallen sharply, public discussion has become heated, and BLUD is on the lips of almost everyone.

BLUD has remained silent and there have been no other major terrorist incidents by any other groups.

Third Conference Session

"Violence in Northern Shamrock: Terrorism or Civil War?"

Moderator: Harold Evans

The Shamrock Liberation Armed Movement (SLAM) is a militant group of Roman Catholics in Northern Shamrock. Northern Shamrock is part of a commonwealth headed by the nation of Great Ally. The Republic of Shamrock won its independence from Great Ally 75 years ago.

SLAM has adopted such violent tactics as bombings and ambushes in its fight for Northern Shamrock's independence from Great Ally. Many civilians and an increasing number of Allied soldiers have been killed in attacks for which SLAM has claimed responsibility. In fact, a recent bombing killed a high-level aide of the Allied Prime Minister.

This morning a letter arrived in the office of the Allied Prime Minister. It was signed by Kelly O'Dare, the chief of SLAM's political wing. In part, the letter said that SLAM wants to "put an end to the violence," and toward that end the letter requested a private meeting between O'Dare and the Prime Minister.

Fourth Conference Session

"Terror at Home: Challenges for a Free and Open Society"

Moderator: Charles R. Nesson

It is Friday morning in Metropolis and most of this western city's 700,000 residents are going about their morning routines. In the city parks department, activity is at a fever pitch. In just three weeks Metropolis will celebrate the 150th anniversary of its founding and a major festival is being planned.

Shortly after 9:00 a.m. Metropolis authorities receive a phone call from a reliable informant. Information he provides indicates that a violent attack will take place on the Metro International Airport. The attack will be carried out by members of DART (Destroy American Repression Today.)

DART is an unknown acronym and law enforcement files contain no reference to any such group. Five years ago the FBI put an end to a series of bombings perpetrated by START (Stop American Repression Today), a Liberanian group. Liberia is a Middle Eastern country ruled by a dictator.

WASHINGTON POST

3 September 1986

Fred Friendly, a former CBS News president and keeper of the Edward R. Murrow flame, has been getting under the skin of his old pals at the network for some time . . .

Last week, at the Radio and Television News Directors Association convention in Utah, he went so far as to say he was "embarrassed by the financial appetites of the anchor stars and their agents," and asked Tom Brokaw, Peter Jennings, Mike Wallace, Dan Rather and Barbara Walters "to volunteer a pay cut to provide the salaries of able colleagues" . . .

And "for those skeptics who may whisper 'How come Murrow never did that?,' " Friendly added, "Let me assure you that he did" . . .

Yesterday, Don Hewitt, executive producer of CBS' "60 Minutes" and something of a Murrow scholar himself, dashed off a memo to those anchors named by Friendly . . .

"Fred Friendly," Hewitt wrote, "who is utterly incapable of saying anything without invoking the name Murrow, something he does almost as often as Jerry Falwell invokes the name of God, has now done it once too often and unbelievably on the only subject on which Ed Murrow was open to criticism . . . MONEY!" . . .

Hewitt went on: "Mr. Friendly conveniently neglected to inform his audience that back in the 1950s Mr. Murrow went to his agent (oh yes, Murrow had an agent) and told him he couldn't live as high on the hog as he wanted to on a journalist's salary and made it clear that he was ready to doff his Savile Row homburg for a song-and-dance man's straw hat if that's what it took to make big money. Maybe Friendly has forgotten the outrageous things he once said about Murrow's get-rich-quick role as the emcee of a prime-time entertainment show called 'Person to Person' (the original 'Life Styles of the Rich and Famous') but there are still some of us around who haven't forgotten. Nor have we forgotten as Friendly apparently has (or won't acknowledge) that Ed Murrow broke the big bucks barrier for broadcast journalists long before Barbara Walters ever dreamed of her million dollars". . .

Neither Rather nor Brokaw would comment yesterday on Friendly's suggestion. Jennings told AP that "I polled the staff on 'World News Tonight' and they thought it was a terrific idea"

Dear Mr. Casey:

Thank you for spending so much time with Morris Leibman and me last Monday. I hope your tentative judgment that you could attend and participate in our seminar/television program on terrorism is now confirmed. The dates are Friday evening, September 26 and Saturday, September 27 in Washington.

Assuming your response is positive, I direct you to the more formal letter I've enclosed, which is really from the Times Mirror Corporation and all of us at Columbia University; it explains all the details you and your staff need to know. And if your reply to our invitation is indeed affirmative, perhaps you would ask to call me or Natalie Paine in this office to tell us that the dates are on your calendar.

STAT

Let me reaffirm that there will be no questions of a secret nature at the seminar, and if there are any questions which the Director of the CIA feels uncomfortable answering, you can simply so indicate. As Mr. Leibman and I told you, this is a critically important seminar which will have far ranging impact, and your presence would assure its success.

We're all looking forward to seeing you in September.

Respectfully,

Fred W. Friendly
