Dear Dr. Wriggins:

We in the Office of Training and Education are delighted that you have accepted [redacted] invitation to participate in a session of our seminar on Intelligence and National Security Policy during the Kennedy-Johnson Era which will meet on 16 January from 5:00 to 7:00 p.m. [redacted] a former Deputy Director for Intelligence, will chair the panel. This session will be one of three on the role of intelligence production during this period and will be attended by about a dozen CIA Senior Intelligence Service Officers, mostly from the production components of the Agency. The Berlin Crisis of 1960-1961 will be examined in detail at an earlier session and the seminar will conclude with a session with former Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara. Enclosed for your information is the reading list which has been sent to each attendee.

STAT

[redacted] has invited [redacted] who was directly involved in the production of current intelligence in the 1960s, to join with you in a discussion of the Arab-Israeli conflict of 1967. After a few words of introduction, Ed will ask you to describe what the policymakers' needs were before, during, and after the war and how well they were served. Bill will then be asked to comment on the subject from the point of view of CIA's production components. Bill may contact you prior to the session and any agreement you two make on how you wish to present your views is acceptable to us. The meeting will conclude with a discussion period lasting until about 7:00 p.m.

STAT

To allow enough time for administrative procedures, including badging, you should plan to be at the CIA Headquarters Building in Langley, Virginia by 4:30. You should enter the Main Gate on Route 123 and park in the visitors' parking lot. The guard at the gate will have been informed of your visit and will instruct you on how to reach the parking lot. Please go to the Main Reception Room, to the left as you enter the building, where a member of our staff will meet you.

Dr. Howard Wriggins

We will, of course, reimburse you for your travel expenses and give you per diem of up to $75 for food and hotel should you decide to stay in the area overnight. In addition, we will provide you with an honorarium of $175.

STAT We assume that your employer has no objection to your participation in our seminar.

STAT If you have any questions, please phone, collect, either [redacted] or Ed Proctor on [redacted]. Thank you again for agreeing to participate in a seminar that should be of considerable value to senior officers of this Agency.

Sincerely,

STAT [redacted signature box]
