Dear Mr. Burdick:

I want to express my appreciation for the meeting you and Bill Thompson had with our Senior Intelligence Officers on 11 March 1987. The candid discussions and insights into IBM's corporate management and executive development program--particularly how IBM goes about handling its problems, constraints, and opportunities--were of great value to our senior executives.

I am grateful for the time and effort devoted to this endeavor and want you to know that all the participants regarded the meeting at IBM to be time very well spent. Thank you for your support.

Sincerely,
