Highlights of Fall/Winter 1986

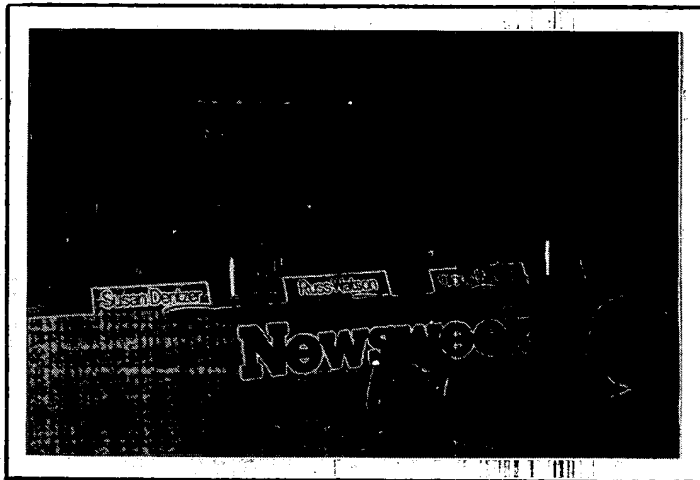

Ms. Nancy Harvey Steorts and Gov. Mark White

Gov. Bill Clements & Amb. Dean

Amb. Walters (r) & aide

NEWSWEEK Panel

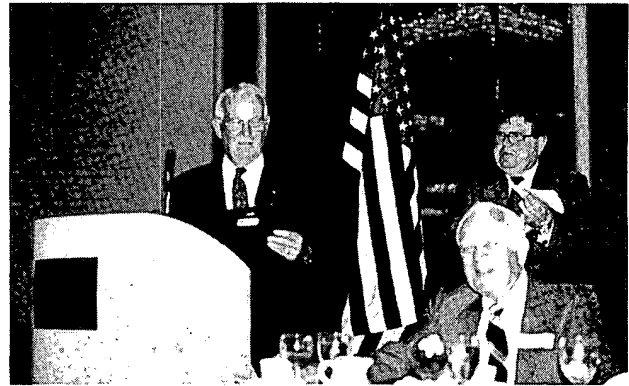

Dr. Robert Gates

POLITICAL SERIES

The 1986 Fall Season began with the "Candidates for Governor". The Council co-sponsored with the Dallas Young Republicans and the Dallas Young Democrats for the luncheons honoring Gov. William P. Clements on September 9 and Gov. Mark White on October 1. The speakers focused on Texas' economic position regarding the oil industry, unemployment, state income taxes, education, and the state's criminal justice system.

Gov. Clements and Dr. James A. Glasscock

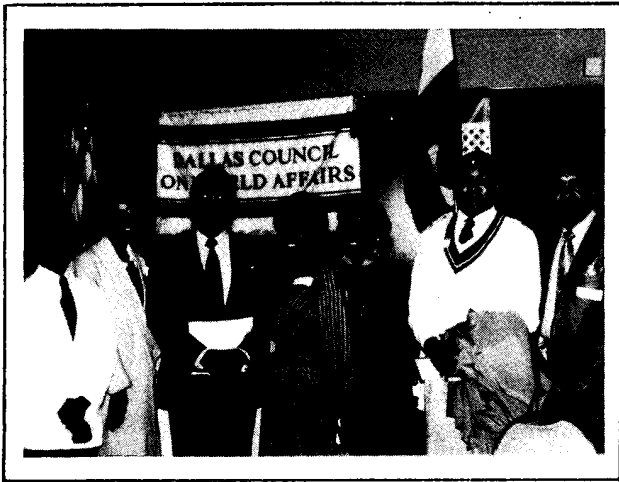

Gen. Latham, Mr. Ken Menges & Gov. White

On November 6, Robert D. Hormats delivered an interesting speech to DCWA members on international economics and business. Mr. Hormats is Vice President for International Corporate Finance of Goldman, Sachs & Co. and Director of Goldman Sachs International. Mr. Hormats is responsible for a broad range of financial activities and set up a new group within Goldman to provide advice on finance and trade to firms and governments to help them develop strategies on their economic needs. Mr. Hormats has previously served as Assistant Secretary of State for Economic and Business Affairs, Deputy U.S. Trade Representative, and was Senior Staff Member for International Economic Affairs on the National Security Council from 1974-77. Mr. Hormats addressed a most responsive audience. Many thanks to Mr. Robert Rendell of Johnson & Swanson for his influence in obtaining Mr. Hormats as our speaker.

Mangosutho Gatsha Buthelezi, leader of 7 million Zulus and Chief Minister of the KwaZulu Legislative Assembly addressed the DCWA on November 25, at the Plaza of the Americas. Chief Buthelezi's stand against anti-apartheid sanctions supposedly influenced President Reagan and Prime Minister Thatcher into opposition of sanctions. The Chief believes that the principle behind the sanctions are "a noble idea" but it would negatively affect the black South Africans it was intended to help. Despite the controversy over his opinions, Buthelezi is considered a moderate who feels non-violent tactics should be followed to create equality for blacks dominated by a white government. Extra security was required for Buthelezi's visit but members were able to talk with the congenial Chief after lunch. Thanks to Gwen Pharo for helping to coordinate the arrangements necessary for this successful program.

The Honorable Robert M. Gates addressed a Council audience of 300 people on February 3, at the World Trade Center. The topic, "War by Another Name", covered tactics used by the Soviet Union to undermine the United States. Dr. Gates spoke on various ways the USSR utilizes Third World countries by inciting violence and disorder and weakening pro-western governments. Dr. Gates provided examples of how the USSR is involved with terrorist activities around the world. Since he was nominated Director of the CIA the day before he was scheduled to speak to the Council, there was some concern that his itinerary wouldn't allow for a stop in Dallas. However, everything went as planned and we appreciate Dr. Gates taking the time to meet with the Council membership.

Mr. Frank Pitts and Dr. Gates

BOOK REVIEW

Fidel: A Critical Portrait by Tad Szulc (William Morrow and Company, Inc. 1986), 653 pages.

Objective view of Castro's life story up to the present. The book tells of the politics involved in Cuba, how Castro started the revolution and his personality. Szulc had numerous interviews with Castro, who told him: "You may paint me as a devil so long as you remain objective and you let my voice be heard." In the interest of being objective, Szulc interviewed not only those who had known and followed Castro since before the revolution but also people who had turned against him.

Szulc is recognized as an expert on Latin America. As a reporter working for the New York Times, he broke the Bay of Pigs story.

Note: Castro is interested in opening trade relations with the United States. The insights into Castro's personality presented in this book would be helpful to anyone who expects to do business with Cuba.

THE DALLAS COMMITTEE FOR FOREIGN VISITORS

For 34 years, the Dallas Committee for Foreign Visitors has provided services for people who are visiting the United States. The Committee plays an important role in a city that is constantly receiving international people and business. The DCFV offers a chance for Dallas area citizens to make friends with people from all over the world. Volunteers enjoy showing off the city and helping out if a problem arises. The Language Bank is frequently used for visitors who don't speak English and translators are needed, but volunteers don't have to be bilingual.

NEW MEMBERS

Welcome to the Dallas Council on World Affairs. We hope this newsletter has been informative and you decide to participate in many of our programs. The Council is proud to be able to obtain such noted speakers, especially when the topic and the person are currently in the news. Speakers such as Dr. Robert Gates, who had recently been appointed Acting Director of the CIA, and Cardinal Jaime Sin, who was an important figure in the Philippine elections, are an example of the Council's interest in current events. We expect many momentous speakers in the future and hope you will attend these programs. Your involvement is important.

THE DALLAS COUNCIL ON WORLD AFFAIRS
Les Femmes du Monde Committee

Les Femmes du Monde had another successful year at the Annual Benefit Sale. The 1986 Sale proved to be the record year. Les Femmes du Monde members spent a year gathering donated items (there are no limits as to what can be donated, as long as it doesn't move on its own and must be laundered). The Committee spent months of planning for the sale, set up and arranged all the items and then conducted the sale for four days. The work these ladies did was magnificent. Thank you Les Femmes du Monde and congratulations for all the wonderful work you've done.

Mrs. Boots Chase, Mrs. Lida Blue & Mrs. Barbara Kern

Mrs. Kern did a great job as General Chairman and her involvement with the sale, Awards Dinner, and Council meetings will not be forgotten.

A big welcome to Mrs. Frank Blue. We look forward to having her as General Chairman for 1986/87.

On Thursday, March 12 at the Adolphus, Les Femmes du Monde Committee will host their annual award dinner benefiting the speaker's fund of the Dallas Council on World Affairs. This year the Committee is honoring Ruth Collins Sharp, a member of the Dallas Council on World Affairs and one of the most outstanding women of Dallas. The speaker at the dinner will be Dr. Sarah Weddington of Austin whose topic will be, "Some Leaders are Born Women".

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Beth Sabo, Council Director of Development and Education, married Erik Huddleston on January 9. The couple is now living in Austria and we send them our best wishes via Air Mail.

The Meadows Foundation has enabled the Council to continue the Distinguished Lecture Series. The DLS obtains noted speakers for Dallas area schools and colleges to educate students on topics of international importance. The series has reached so many kids and we are grateful for the support of this foundation. Some of the subjects covered by the speakers are: International Trade, The Office of the President, The Nature of Modern War, Cultural Exchange, The American Indian, NATO, U.S./Latin American Relations. Call the Council office at 748-5663, if your school is interested in this program.

The Model United Nations Organization is having a model U.N. conference on April 25. The conference is designed for college and highschool students who will be role-playing delegates from different countries. Participants will be given a topic for a specific country they will represent and experience, first hand, the importance of public speaking, negotiation techniques and cross-cultural communications. The Council is co-sponsoring this conference with Southern Methodist University, The Dallas United Nations Association and the Dallas Community College District. For registration information please call Guy Gooding at 333-8715.

Howard Van Zandt, a noted authority on Japanese business and a professor emeritus of business at the University of Texas at Dallas, died January 30 after a heart attack.

Professor Van Zandt was a speaker in the Council's Distinguished Lecture Series and spoke on a variety of topics involving Japanese trade, management methods and U.S.-Japanese relations. His first hand experiences while living and travelling in Japan provided many interesting stories on Japanese culture.

Mr. Van Zandt was also a business consultant and wrote Pioneer American Merchants In Japan, a book published in 1980.

The Handicapped Student Services of the University of Texas at Arlington would like your help in meeting their goal of providing special wheelchairs needed for competitive games. Each chair costs $1650 and we would like to donate at least one chair. Please make your check payable to the Dallas Council on World Affairs. Donations will be forwarded to the Texas Junior Wheelchair Team. The donation will be made in the Council's name and will allow us to sponsor a child in the track and field events.
