

WASHINGTON
DAILY NEWS

MAR 23 1966

TRITEMS: I have a letter here from a man who signs himself "Secret Reader." I wonder why he's ashamed to let people know he reads this column. Hmmm. Do you suppose he has the paper delivered in a plain brown wrapper? Well, anyway, he says that a friend of his, a Central Intelligence Agency employe (but not an agent) vacationed in Italy recently and was dumbfounded as he rode into Rome from the airport. Everywhere he looked, he saw the initials, "CIA." He later learned that this is the Italian abbreviation for the word "company."