Dear Tom:

After my confirmation hearings, and once I was settled in my new position as Director of Central Intelligence, I promised to get back with you concerning your invitation for me to speak at the Young Presidents' Organization (YPO) conference. Unfortunately, my schedule is so full that I will not be able to accept your invitation to address the YPO Pacific Area Conference in Monterey between October 7th and 11th. I regret that I will not be able to join you this time, but wish you a successful conference.

Sincerely yours,

Bill

Dear Tom:

Thanks for your kind words about the Lincoln Club speech. As you know, I am in the midst of the confirmation process connected with my appointment as Director of Central Intelligence. If all goes well, I should be over at the agency in the not too distant future. Inasmuch as my future commitments are not yet settled, I will be unable to give you a firm answer at this time. I will, however, correspond with you as soon as I get settled. Once again, thanks for thinking me and I look forward to discussing the Young Presidents' Organization Conference in the future with you.

Sincerely,

Dear Judge Webster:

You probably received the attached letter in the past few days.

I simply want to confirm that I did suggest you as a speaker for the YPO Conference October 7-11 in Monterey, California.

This is a very enthusiastic group, loaded with some of the top young presidents of companies in the West.

Their plans are for a typically first-class weekend, loaded with fun, education and an array of other options.

You would enjoy the group, and I know they would love to snare you for their program.

Best,

This educational conference is specifically designed for the 700 YPO members living in the seven western states, but would also attract other members from around the world.

You and your guest would be welcome to participate in all the educational, sporting and social activities of the conference, including a driving school and rally with the automobiles supplied by Porsche, and a private tour and dinner at the new Monterey Aquarium.

If this date meets with your approval, please let me know and I will make the final arrangements.

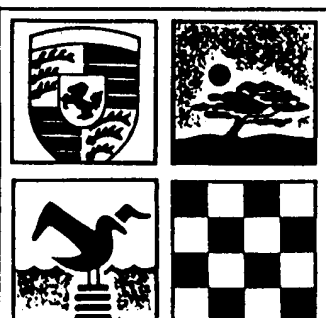

Sincerely,

Carl D. Covitz
Educational Chairman
1987 YPO Pacific Area Conference
