SUBJECT:

Coordination of Darling CIA History for the CIA Historical Review Program

Enclosed are the 11 volumes of a 1953 DCI History Staff study entitled "The Central Intelligence Agency: An Instrument of Government, to 1950," by Arthur B. Darling. HRS has performed the initial declassification review on these volumes for the CIA Historical Review Program and is now submitting them to ISC for coordination of your equities.

As you may know, a program was begun during Director Casey's tenure to review those portions of CIA records that are both of historical interest and relatively declassifiable with the objective of ultimately transferring declassified material to The National Archives and Records Administration. These volumes were selected for the HRB by the DCI History Staff from among records for which it holds custodial responsibility. We are simultaneously sending copies of these volumes for coordination to the DI, DO, O/DCI, NSC, DOD, and FBI.

Our recommendation is that these volumes be declassified in toto. If there are portions that you desire to withhold, please bracket them in red along with the appropriate justifications, from Executive Order 12356, for deletion. If you have questions please call me on 351-2884. Please return the volumes to 322 Ames upon completion of your review.
