16 vladlen kuznetsov, in series "topical problems of international life," discusses dilemma of whether or not to use military solution to resolve problems dividing world. refutes western claims that ussr seeks to export revolution, pointing out that this contradicts very nature of ussr socioeconomic and political system. criticises west for using myth of soviet military threat as pretext for expanding military potential; reviews determining factors of ussr's approach to question of war and peace in contrast to that of usa and other western countries which seek military supremacy over ussr. outlines various concrete proposals put forward by ussr and other socialist countries to end arms race and washington's negative response to them. (orbita 0445 0615 home 1145)

99 ivan ogarkov, pravda corr in turkey for many years, "undermining soviet-turkish good-neighborliness is one of nato's aims": komer, u.s. amb in turkey in 1960s who was also cia agent, left no stone unturned to undermine relations btwn ussr and turkey that had begun improving in those years after period of stagnation. such efforts have recently been renewed with vigor, both by u.s. officials and luns. washington and nato are trying to impose new role on turkey, by sending in more arms and modernizing milit airfields -- with aim of using these as base for rapid deployment force. it is to mask these activities that they have launched their
