(Tasking data sheet attached)

Summary: An aspect of the event involves action initiated by the smaller (perhaps indigenous) military group, upon the direction of a political "controller". The action is somehow connected with a large, square building. The leader of the small military group is altruistic, and also naive--he is unaware that his group are simply viewed as pawns by the political controller. Ideas associated with the event/action are: surprise, capture, and conceal; it reminds me of a corporate takeover action/attempt. "Capture" is connected with something symbolic/representative/strategic.

The action seems like it is stopped at the last minute, almost like a preemptive attack on the small military group.

Note: Two ideas were strongly reoccurring throughout the session: 1) the military leader and 2) the large, square building.

Numerous AOL's were present, many which contradict the data:

- Latin American embassy attack
- Overthrow of a government by a junta
- Dienbenphu
- US attack on Libya
- Israeli air attack on troops in the hills
- Beirut bombing of Marines/embassy
