- E. INFORMATION:

The site consisted of a large circular area that was broken at some portion. People can walk up and down this broken portion. The site consisted of a very large rounded structure with a pointed roof. This structure had many sides to it. The structure was dark in color. The structure reminded me of a castle. The structure has many entrances and doors. Once inside the structure, I could see black doors. At one point inside, it seemed that when you opened one door, there was another door. People inside the structure seemed serious. I had the feeling that more females are inside the structure than males.

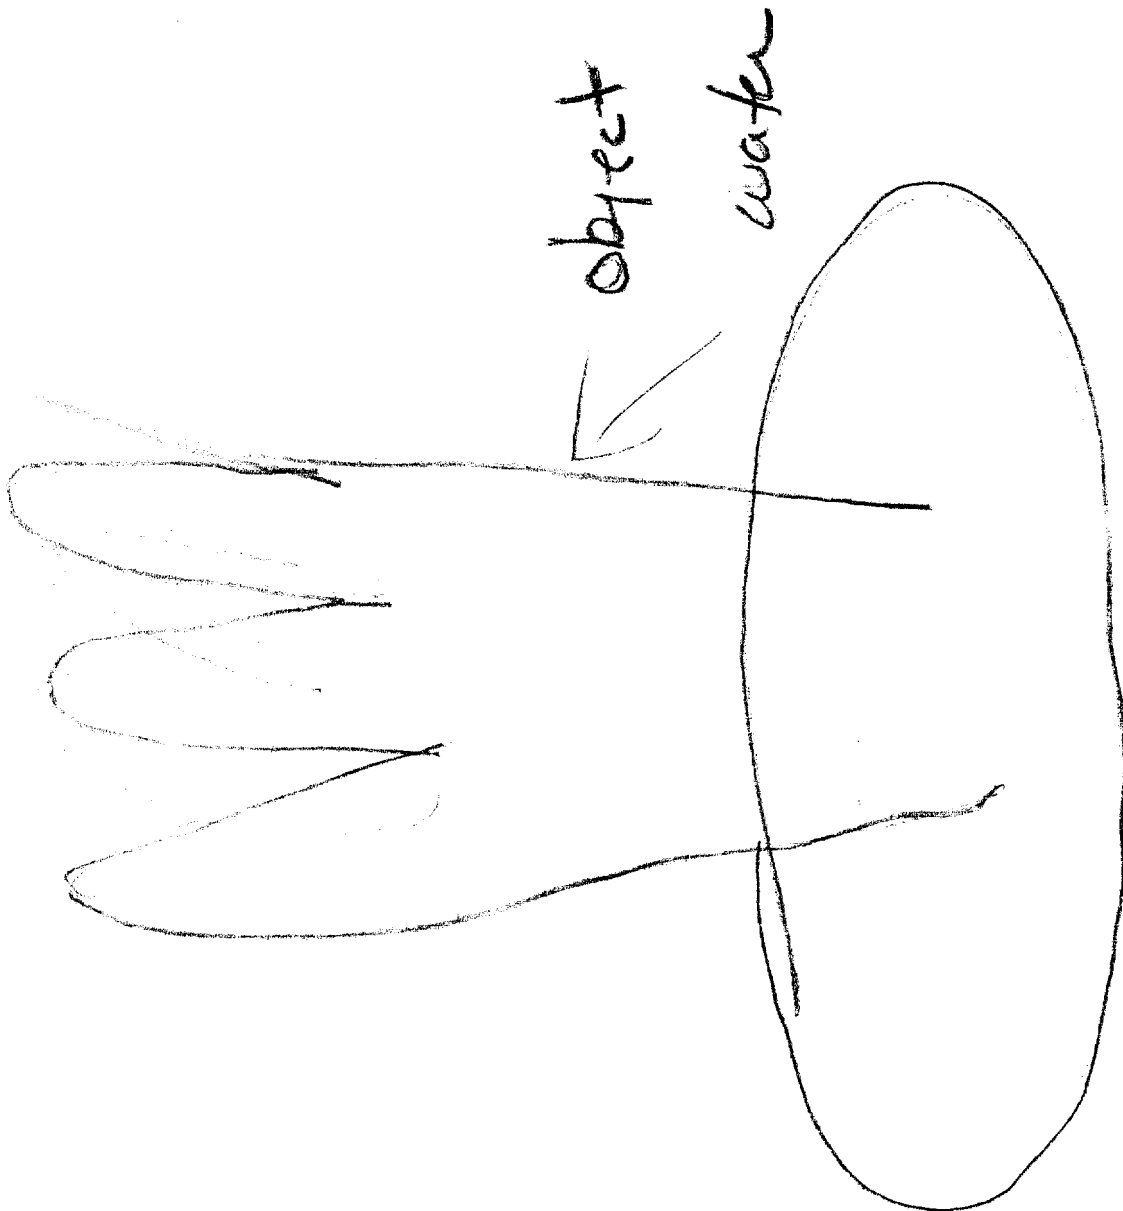

Water is at the site and it is important to the site. There was a small square object at the site that looked like a vehicle of some sort. This object was opened in the back and in the front it looked like it had a "sun viser."

There was a second object at the site that was tall that looked like a large "water fountain."

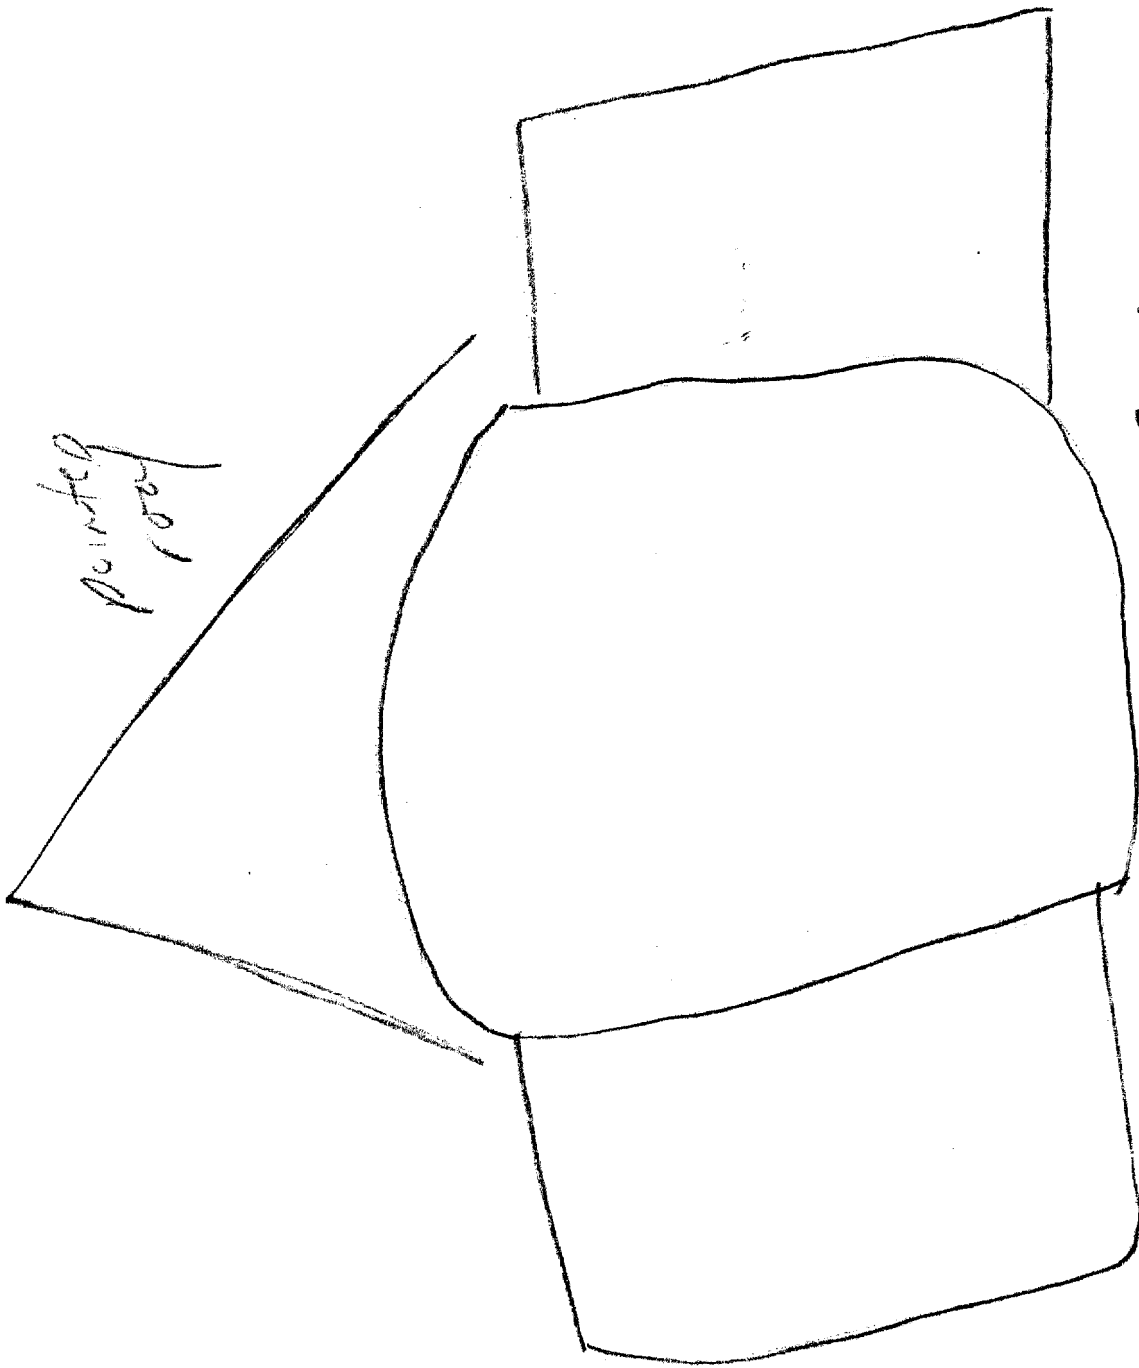

The overall site was very large and took up a great deal of space however, I felt that I was in a city. There were city noises in the background.

The structure's purpose was one of work and healing.
