Purpose of the activity is to gain power, influence, and material rewards. Mercenary motivations and a desire for status are important factors. The objective is to gain ascendancy through the coercive value of wealth--If you're rich you have power to get richer at the expense of others. Type of activities: covert, clandestine, illegal, paralegal. In some places it is illegal to do what they want, in other places it's "looked the other way." In some specific locations--"bases"--there's very little fear of outside interference. A sense that it involves moving highly desirable material from one location where it is obtainable, to an area where it is scarce and therefore even more valuable. The sense of "material" is rather varied. Some of it comes in discrete items, but some involves also bulk material of different nature but no less attractive or valuable for those seeking financial aggrandizement. Fairly broadbased situation--reliance is not exclusively on one thing--diversified "products."
