Declassi	fied in Part - Sani		ed for Release	2014/02/03	: CIA-RDP96R	01136R001302330014-3
•	THIELLIGE ME.	Directorate of		•	•	1 op Seeret	. '
		Intelligence	:.	:
				.
94	 		•		/.a		0574
							25X1
	_
* ₹.
					•	4

Afghanistan Situation Report

25X1

27 November 1984

Bus Brothing Africa A
KING JOHN MINING TO JOHN THE THE TOTAL THE TOT
AFGHANISTAN SITUATION REPORTMENT OF STUARS AND A STUAR
DUS OF EDUCATED AFGHANS A recent upsurge of emigration by educated Kabulis is caused by regime pressure to join the ruling party.	1
BRIEF	2
SPECTIVE
FUNDAMENTALISTS AND MODERATES IN THE AFGHAN RESISTANCE According to interviews conducted in Pakistan, most Afghan	3
leaders and insurgents fight to free their villages and local areas of foreign troops, and join a larger fundamentalist or moderate exile group to get weapons and supplies. Religious ideology plays a subordinate role in most groups. The fundamentalists have the largest following because they receive
	DUS OF EDUCATED AFGHANS A recent upsurge of emigration by educated Kabulis is caused by regime pressure to join the ruling party. BRIEF SPECTIVE FUNDAMENTALISTS AND MODERATES IN THE AFGHAN RESISTANCE According to interviews conducted in Pakistan, most Afghan leaders and insurgents fight to free their villages and local areas of foreign troops, and join a larger fundamentalist or moderate exile group to get weapons and supplies. Religious

े दहें अपने भी जनभारति देश के अपने बुंह में प्राप्त की बाने प्राप्त

	। Part - Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2014/02/03 : CIA-RDP96R01136 নিটামেন ক্রিয়ার মান্ত্রকার্যক্রিয়ান ক্রিয়ার	6R0013023300)14-3 25X1
	grading and the court of the co
	This document is prepared weekly by the Office of Near Eastern and South Asian Analysis and the Office of Soviet Analysis.]	25 X 1
		Remove to grey arms of g	25 X 1
. t	हास्तेऽत्यासारः कारणास्य कृतकाल्यास्थलात् कारणास्य कारणास्य कारणास्य कारणास्य कारणास्य राज्यास्य कारणास्य राज्य	1990 C	7
	্রিছে নিয়ন্ত্রিক জ্বাস্থ্য বর্গ প্রচারের ক্রান্ত্রিক প্রচার্থিক জ্বাস্থ্য হয়। ইন্তান্ত্রিক জ্বাস্থ্য বিষয়ে কর্মান্ত্রিক বিষয়ে ক্রান্ত্রিক বিষয়ে বিষয় বিষয়ে বিষয়ে বিষয় ব		ŧ
	en e		·
	en e
Ž
	ENFINE Tologia (1981), 37 (1991) Tologia (1981), 37 (1991)		•
,	en la companya di mangana na mang Tanggana na mangana na
	াৰ বিজ্ঞান কৰিব কৰিব কৰিব কৰিব কৰিব কৰিব কৰিব কৰিব ţ.
			•
			٠

27 Movember 1884 NSSA NG BERTUBBACK SBVA NA NA-1020ACK 27 November 1984 NESA M 84-10304CX SOVA M 84-10204CX

Hendu Via CONSENT Graceur SC/04131-26

, ii	eg i
			e e e e
EXODUS OF EDI	JCATED AFGHANS		entre de la companya
	cording to US Embassy rep
emigra	tion of educated Kabulis h	nas resulted from red	ime pressure
difficu	the ruling party or lose Ity finding suitable replace	ements for white-col	lar staff
Succes	rs who had fled. Afghan sful Afghan businessmen v	were also among tho	se who had left
Kabul	or were planning to leave	for Pakistan and Inc	dia.
			en en estado.

कुष्टुमकर, गांक
*.	The state of the s
•
	Comment:
·	Most educated Afghans fled the country after the Communist takeover in 1978. The few who remained probably have cooperated with the regime only to maintain their livelihoods. Their exodus is likely to increase the inefficiency of the bureaucracy and, if the Communists continue to have problems developing cadre, slow the growth of Communist control.	2
IN BR	IEF
	 Insurgent forces in Kabul fired 24 rockets in 45 minutes during the middle of the night of 25 November, according to US Embassy reports. The attack, one of the most intense since the Soviet invasion, occurred in the face of recent Soviet efforts to upgrade Kabul's security.	2
		2
		w
		2
•
		2

NESA M 84-10304CX SOVA M 84-10204CX

Declassified in Part - Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2014/02/03 : CIA-RDP96R01136R0013023300	14-3 25X1
PERSPECTIVE
FUNDAMENTALISTS AND MODERATES IN THE AFGHAN RESISTANCE	25 X 1
by an Academic Consultant
This view of the strengths and weaknesses of the fundamentalists and moderate factions of the Afghan resistance is based on interviews conducted by the author in Peshawar, Pakistan, in 1983.	25X1
Why Afghans Fight
Interviews with Afghan leaders and insurgents in Pakistan indicate that many insurgents are motivated primarily by a desire to free their villages and valleys of foreign troops. Others are fighting for national freedom and independence. Belief in Islam drives a smaller number, and some fight because war offers booty or plunder.	25 X 1
The interviews also indicate that the majority of guerrillas belong to small, self—contained units that do not often require outside support. Some insurgents, however, join a larger political organization, usually one of the six main exile groups headquartered in Peshawar.	25X1
Potential guerrilla fighters sometimes approach these groups as individuals, but more often they come in small bands organized along traditional kinship or tribal lines. In the traditionally structured Afghan society, most insurgents follow their village, tribal, or ethnic leaders, who decide which group their men will join.	25 X 1
There are a number of advantages to association with a larger exile organization:	•
— These groups offer materials, mostly arms, that are not available from other sources, especially antitank and antiaircraft weapons. The interviews indicated that there are many more men ready to fight than can be armed and that the resistance organizations can accommodate only a fraction of the potential insurgents.

Declassified in Part - Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2014/02/03 : CIA-RDP96R01
A STATE OF THE STA
— The main insurgent groups in Pakistan offer an organizational structure. They can offer tactical leadership and training as well as networks of communications in the field to help coordinate guerrilla activity.
Some resistance organizations in Pakistan offer an ideological base that is important to some of the guerrillas.
base that is important to some of the guerrillas. The Fundamentalists	ranger Samuel Samuel Samuel Samuel
The fundamentalists have the largest following. The interviews indicate that they are generally younger, better organized, much better financed, and benefit from their connections to the Muslim Brotherhood. Fundamentalist leaders generally come from the urban middle and lower classes of Kabul; many were students or faculty at Kabul University. They are suspicious of both East and West.	25X1
The fundamentalists seek to reorder Afghan society on Islamic principles. The extremists among them favor an Iranian—style government and society in Afghanistan. Others are less doctrinaire, open to compromise, and, like the moderates, acknowledge the need for coexistence with the USSR and have ties with Afghan exiles in the West.
	25X1
The fundamentalists' appeal is based on more than religious fervor. — They are better connected with fundamentalist groups in Pakistan and throughout the Islamic world, especially the Gulf. These groups funnel resources to the fundamentalists in preference to the moderates. Guerrilla leaders looking for resources to fight in Afghanistan are naturally drawn to those with the most to offer.	in for the second of the secon
— The fundamentalists have a better and more established organization than the moderates, having left Afghanistan to begin fighting in 1973–74. Most moderates left Afghanistan in 1978.
The fundamentalists now have the upper hand in much of the fighting, and many guerrilla commanders want to be on the side of the winner.	of
NESA M	ember 1984 84-10304CX 84-10204CX

Declassified in Part - Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2014/02/03 : CIA-RDP96R01136R001302330	⁾¹⁴⁻³ 25X1
CARLES CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CONT A CARLES CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR CO

Burhanuddin Rabbani of the Jamiat-i-Islami, unlike the leaders of the state of the other groups, is non-Pushtun, and tends to attract other non-Pushtuns to a second his organization. Non-Pushtuns make up more than half the Afghan population. Many Westerners and Afghans also see Rabbani as more reasonable than the other fundamentalist leaders, who are often intransigent and bellicose, especially Gulbuddin. Yunus Khalis attracts followers because he is a traditional religious leader and because he is the only exile leader who actually fights in Afghanistan with his men. The second of th

25X1

4.5

The second of the second of the second of the second

The Moderates

(4)36年 (2)44/4/4/19

THE STATE OF STATES

State of the same

PROPERTY OF THE SECOND STATES

The moderates, like the fundamentalists, cover a wide political spectrum, but on the whole are more religiously tolerant, acknowledge the need for compromise with the USSR, and maintain good connections with the former landowners and ruling classes, as well_as with Afghan ... exile communities in the West. Unlike the fundamentalists, most moderates would be satisfied with restoration of the traditional monarchical system of government that existed in the 1960s; they favor the return of former King Zahir Shah. The moderate leaders were part of the former ruling elite in Afghanistan and have become the center of the resistance movement for those who were part of that social scene. Moderate supporters include former government ministers, other officials, and school teachers. Because the ruling elite was rooted in a tribal-based system, the moderates have better ties to tribal leaders still in Afghanistan.

25X1

The relative disorganization of the moderates is both a liability and an asset. They have overlapping command structures that seem to frustrate rather than facilitate decisionmaking. They favor friends and relatives for leadership positions rather than effective leaders. They make no effort to coordinate their fighting in Afghanistan, and the leaders themselves seem more concerned with their religious standing than with running effective guerrilla operations. Many potential followers undoubtedly become exasperated with the chaos.

25X1

On the other hand, many of the guerrilla bands who come to Peshawar from Afghanistan would prefer to join an organization that imposes few, if any, restrictions. This is especially true of bands from rural areas where guerrilla activities are already organized around kin, tribal, or village structures. Such bands are interested primarily in obtaining

> 27 November 1984 NESA M 84-10304CX SOVA M 84-10204CX 并从恐惧。 管理時間 超级 医腺性毒

> > M. 12 12

rungamentalists,	but they also can provide equipm	ent and ammunition.	· ·
			, •-
Outlook
exiles.
The revitaliz	fundamentalists are part of an i	llowings throughout
The revitaliz		llowings throughout
The revitaliz the Mid The	ation that is gaining increased fo	ollowings throughout oung. I bold and have great

Declassified in Part - Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2014/02/03 : CIA-RDP96R01136R001302330014-3 25X1

27 November 1984 NESA M 84-10304CX SOVA M 84-10204CX 25X1

25X1

医二氢酚 医维斯氏征 點 一种的复数形式

Top Secret