DEPUTY DIRECTOR (PLANS)

OSO

According to the Chief of Swedish Intelligence, the Swedish Government believes that Soviet fighters shot down the Swedish Air Force C-47 lost on 12 June as a planned operation; whereas, shooting down of the Catalina search plane four days later was unpremeditated. The C-47, which was actually nearer Sweden than the U.S.S.R. when attacked, had flown a number of radar detection missions previously, and the Soviets probably observed it and understood its activity. The Swedish Air Force will not restrict operations over the Baltic as a result of the incident but will prepare aircraft to defend themselves in the future. (IN 15972)
