

3. Situation in Cuba

[REDACTED] troop movements in Las Villas and Pinar del Rio provinces, an increase in antiaircraft firing practice to ten hours daily at a base near the north coast port of Mariel, and the outbreak of new insurgent activity in Pinar del Rio Province.

Early on 6 April, 500 men were dispatched to eastern Pinar del Rio where a group, taking arms and supplies with it, had joined an insurgent movement. [REDACTED] reported that a captured insurgent said his group expected an imminent landing in Pinar del Rio. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] reports of imminent "invasions" of Cuba by anti-Castro groups in exile, but were contradictory as to the exact date and place of the expected landings.

CIA HISTORICAL REVIEW PROGRAM
RELEASE AS SANITIZED
1997