BOLIVIA: Coup Plotting

Plotting in the military against the repressive Garcia Meza regime has resumed. The apparently multiple conspiracies involve both troop commanders and staff officers. Some groups have been inactive since last November, probably waiting to see if Garcia Meza was correct in his claim that the new US administration would move quickly to normalize relations. The various plotters reportedly believe the regime's continuing diplomatic isolation will rally the broad military support necessary to depose Garcia Meza. [REDACTED]
