Dear George:

File
An old friend of mine, Leon Moore, to whom I am indebted for wise counsel and advice, tells me that his son-in-law, Jack Jaglom, is a chemical engineer in your employ. He is a young man just starting on his work but I promised my friend I would write you a word about him and see how he is getting along.

Let me know when you are next in Washington where I seem to be installed for the immediate future.

Faithfully yours,
