No. 926

(U) Reel Vs. Real Exhibit Added to the Cold War Gallery

(U) Exhibits include comparisons of caltrops with the James Bond ninja throwing star.

The Fine Arts Commission and the Center for the Study of Intelligence/CIA Museum invite visitors to view "Real vs. Reel" in the Cold War Gallery, a mini-exhibit comparing the "real world" espionage artifacts from the collection of H. Keith Melton with the TV and movie spy props from the Spy-Fi Archives "reel world" collection of Danny Biederman. Selected pieces from Melton's Stanley Lovell Archive will also be displayed in the Cold War

Gallery area.

Visitors will see an OSS High Standard .22 caliber suppressed pistol with an U.N.C.L.E. Walter P38 with three suppressors; a Fairbairn-Sykes fighting knife with a James Bond MI6 throwing knife; a KGB makeup case concealment device with a Get Smart Agent 99 makeup case; a KGB pen and pencil desk set audio transmitter with an U.N.C.L.E. cigarette case transmitter; a foreign fountain pen transmitter with a Get Smart pen radio; and a KGB assassination cane with an U.N.C.L.E. pistol cane.
