Dear Duncan:

We are closing up as a war agency within forty-eight hours: but I want to send you a word of appreciation and commendation before the curtain comes down on our work.

You have put your brains, your imagination and your doggedness into everything you have done - even into devising ways of getting out of a jungle behind enemy lines after landing by parachute from a cracked up plane!

From the early days when you added to the smooth functioning of the secretariat until these recent months when you were planning and staffing and implementing operations in China, your results have always been superior.

You have reason to be proud of what you have done, and we are proud of you.

Sincerely yours,

/s/ William J. Donovan
